Ghana Eyes U.K. Firms

LONDON (AP)—Authoritative sources reported Friday night that Ghana plans the takeover of some 200 foreign firms in a three-year reorganization plan.

Mistake

Hunter Slays Brother

PORT ALBERNI — Victor Andreef, 24, was killed in a hunting accident on Grassy Mountain some 10 miles south-east of Port Alberni Friday morning.

MISTAKEN FOR DEER

RCMP said the young man was mistaken for a deer by his brother Nikolai, 22, and shot through the head by a bullet from a .303 rifle at 6.45 a.m.

INQUIRY SET

Coroner Dr. N. H. Jones is conducting an inquiry.

The Andreef family lives in the Cherry Creek district.

Key companies among the 70 British enterprises that would be affected issued sharp protests. Shares of companies with assets in Ghana sagged in the London stock exchange.

EXPECTED MOVE

The British government has been expecting some far-reaching nationalization measures in its former West African colony.

Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth relations secretary, called at once for full details of the Accra government's intentions, according to an official spokesman.

DISAGREEMENT

Exact scope of Ghana's socialization plans still seems to be a subject of debate—and possibly disagreement—within the government of President Nkrumah.

Only last month Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah sought in London to raise private loan and investment funds.

RECONSIDER

Any wholesale takeover might compel the Western powers to reconsider past offers of large-scale economic aid to Ghana. The West African state is launching a huge five-year industrialization program hinged on harnessing the waters of the Volta River.

World Series Pitch Ted Williams' Job

Baseball star Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox takes a new job today, and he seems like just the man for it.

Williams, who has complained he's been besieged with offers of employment since his retirement two weeks ago, will throw out the first ball in today's world series game between New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates. (See story Page 8.)

Abandon Quemoy Kennedy's Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic candidate John Kennedy says he would withdraw defences from offshore Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu and draw the defence line at Formosa. Vice-President Nixon says he would continue to defend the islands.

The issue of the Quemoy and Matsu islands, plus handling of the U-2 spy plane incident, were among the big points of difference in the second radio-television debate between the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates.

Trading charges of "distortion" and "defeatism," Nixon and Kennedy dropped the relatively soft approach of their first face-to-face engagement as they tangled over such issues as civil rights, U.S. policy toward Cuba and the state of U.S. prestige.

The major fireworks came when Kennedy was asked his position on defence of the offshore islands, now held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces. They have been a long-time target of the Communists on the mainland.

Kennedy replied that he would draw a defence line around the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, 150 miles away, and appeal to Chiang to give up Quemoy and Matsu. He said this would leave a line that could be defended—Formosa—and would have the support of other nations.

CHAIN REACTION

Nixon disagreed sharply, accusing Kennedy of "woolly thinking." He said he hoped the Democrat would change his mind because giving up any "free territory" would start a chain reaction of Communist threats and demands.

On the U-2 incident, Kennedy stood by his previous statement that he would have expressed regret to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev over the spy's plane flight if this would have salvaged the summit. And he charged that his statement had been "distorted" by Nixon and others.

PREFERABLE TO LIE

Kennedy said his course would have been preferable to the "lie" the administration told in first denying the flight. He said this country had voiced regrets before in similar circumstances.

Nixon retorted that the president of the United States can never express regret when he is in the right and doing something to protect the country. He said he would never express regrets to Khrushchev for any national security program.

China Issue Fireworks Delayed by UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The UN General Assembly yesterday suddenly called off its night session as the East and West approached a critical clash on the issue of Red China's membership.

Fireworks on the China issue thus were put off until after Soviet Premier Khrushchev makes another assembly address today.

Republic Pledged In Eight Months

Reuters, UPI

JOHANNESBURG — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, in a radio broadcast Friday night, promised South Africans a republic within eight months. (See also Page 5.)

Verwoerd declared: "Within eight months, the ideal of generations and the choice of the people for a republic will be fulfilled."

Final returns today in South Africa's referendum gave 849,958 votes to supporters of republic status and 775,978 to those opposed.

Verwoerd said the vote was "clearly final." He hinted that Parliament might set May 31—Union Day—as a suitable date for the birth of the republic.

Canada Picks Newfoundland For First Satellite Tracker

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's first station designed specifically to track satellites and record signals from outer space will be built near St. John's, Nfld.

Dr. R. S. Riethe of the radio and electrical engineering division of the National Research Council said Friday that the $250,000 station will be operating by mid-December. Dr. Riethe said the station "will be of particular importance in helping Canadian scientists learn more about the ionosphere, an electrically-charged layer 60 to 300 miles above the earth. This will enable scientists to develop better telecommunications systems.

The new satellite tracking station, being built 15 miles north of St. John's near Pouch Cove, will occupy a 25-acre site.

being constructed under an international agreement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Washington. The space administration is paying the full cost of installation but annual operating and maintenance costs of about $150,000 will be borne by Canada.

The Newfoundland site was chosen because of its position in relation to satellite launching sites in the United States.

The station will play an important role in recording signals from Canada's "top side sounder" satellite, scheduled to be launched into space by a U.S. rocket from the Vandenberg, Calif., air base in 1962. The satellite, now being built by the Defence Research Board, will pick up and transmit to earth information about the upper levels of the ionosphere and radio signals emanating from outer space.

Tunisia To Push Rebels?

TUNIS (Reuters) — President Habib Bourguiba said Friday Tunisia might unite with the Algerian insurgents to hasten the "liberation" of Algeria and keep it out of the cold war.

He told the National Assembly here that Russian or Chinese armies may soon be on the way to the insurgents.

SIX-YEAR FIGHT

They have been fighting for independence from France for the last six years.

"When Russia and China enter the lists—and we can perhaps no longer prevent them—we will be obliged to carry out this fusion to prevent Africa tending to become a satellite of East or West," Bourguiba said.

SEEKS SUPPORT

Algerian rebel "premier" Ferhat Abbas now is in Moscow seeking support for his forces after receiving a promise in Peking of Chinese Communist aid.

Bourguiba said his "idea" for uniting with the Algerian insurgents is not yet a firm project. The aim, he said, is to build a democratic North Africa as soon as the Algerian people are free.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—In a challenge to French President de Gaulle, Soviet Premier Khrushchev Friday recognized the Algerian rebel leadership as in fact a government.

The French government had threatened to break relations with the Soviet Union if it recognized the North African rebels fighting for independence from France. De Gaulle is promoting a plan he says will give Algeria self-determination but hopes to keep it allied with France.

The immediate reaction in Paris was that Khrushchev's statement before a United Nations Correspondents Association luncheon came as a surprise.

De Gaulle himself was touring the French provinces, bitterly speaking out against the UN assembly in apparent anticipation of action it may take on the Algerian rebels' case for independence.

K's Pledge:

Spring Summit Will Put Off Berlin Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev pledged yesterday Russia will take no action to force a showdown on Germany and West Berlin if the West agrees to a new summit conference next spring.

Khrushchev told the United Nations Correspondents' Association British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had assured him there would be a summit meeting in the spring. If there is not, he said, the Soviet Union will sign a peace treaty with East Germany and "that will be the end of the West Berlin question also."

NO PROMISE

But British foreign office spokesman John Russell denied yesterday that Macmillan promised Khrushchev there would be a summit conference next spring. He also refuted other assertions made by the Soviet leader.

Khrushchev said Russia insists upon the replacement of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld by a three-member presidium and warned that if its demand is not granted, it will rely on "our strength" outside the United Nations.

STRENGTH, NOT FORCE

His interpreter translated his remarks as a threat to "uphold our interests outside this organization by means of force." The Soviet press officer later said that phrase should have been translated "by relying on our strength."

The Soviet leader said Russia would not accept Hammarskjöld as secretary-general, even if 99 per cent of the UN members voted for him.

Answering questions for an hour and 42 minutes, Khrushchev told the newsmen:

● Macmillan assured him in private talks that there would be a summit conference next year after the U.S. election. The summit would be convened to discuss a peace treaty with Germany and the conversion of West Berlin into a free city, he said.

● Russia would stand by its pledge not to force the German issue by signing a separate treaty with East Germany if there is agreement to hold a summit session.

● In return, Khrushchev proposed a special session of the general assembly, to be held next February and April, perhaps in Moscow or Leningrad, to discuss only the questions of disarmament.

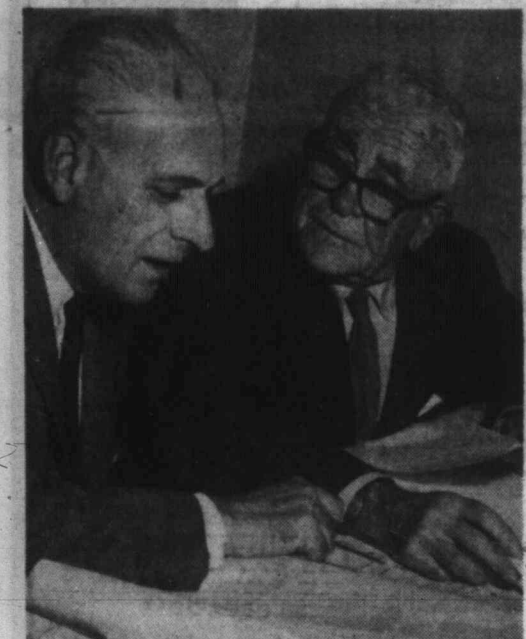

● The current assembly session cannot solve questions because of the "hindrance" of the U.S. presidential election, which means that "the United States cannot actively participate in solving all the important questions" before it.

● Macmillan favored a delay of "five or 10" years on the disarmament question to permit world tension to cool, and then wanted to give the problem to a committee of experts "and let them move ahead as a small would move." Russia, Khrushchev said, insisted on going ahead now with disarmament "under international control" to prevent the spread of nuclear arms and missiles and the entry of more countries into the armaments race.

(Russell said Macmillan did not reject Khrushchev's proposal for a special assembly session on disarmament, but at the same time "he did not accept it." He said it was not correct that Macmillan proposed a five or 10-year delay in disarmament plans. And he said Macmillan's plan for an expert committee to consider disarmament was a proposal to speed things up.)

Mapping New Wing

Preparing for construction of new Royal Jubilee Hospital wing is a "pretty complicated job," and work is going ahead as fast as possible, says Vancouver architect Fred Townley, right, deep in plans with hospital administrator George Masters.

Fishboats, Ship Capsize

Typhoon Rips Philippines 20 Dead, Scores Missing

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon mile-an-hour winds, leaving 20 persons dead and 58 missing, swept into the South China Sea Friday after it slashed through the populous central Philippine Islands with 90-Mph winds in its northward swing.

There was no complete report on damage and casualties.

Most of the persons unaccounted for were fishermen whose boats sank in turbulent seas. At least eight small boats and one 240-ton ship capsized in southern Philippine waters before they could reach shelter.

First reports from officials in the coconut centre of Bicol placed damage to crops, public works projects and private property at $300,000. The figure was expected to rise.

HARVEST HEIGHT

Damage to crops could be particularly heavy because the storm came at the height of the rice harvest.

Fringe rains also caused floods in lower sections in Manila and in northern Tarlac province, where rising rivers were reported threatening to inundate several towns.

Blast, Fire Ruin Largest Mill

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—An explosion and fire Friday night wrecked the largest flour mill in the Commonwealth.

One person was missing, six were in hospital and first estimates placed damage as high as $1,500,000.

Four hours after the blast at the Maple Leaf Milling Co., the fire was reported "still out of control" and creeping toward a 3,000,000-bushel National Harbors Board grain elevator 70 feet away.

The adjoining Ontario Bag Co. also was reported destroyed.

George Crowther, 40, building superintendent, said:

"The top blew off her. It started on about the third floor and went on through. "I don't know what could have happened. I don't know whether it was combustion or not."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Yesterday was a mixed-up kind of day, for me. Politics, fish and horse-racing. A lady telephoned me first thing in the morning to warn me against the dangers of Communism.

"Communists in some labor unions," she alleged.

"Maybe," I said. "A few may squeeze into any organization. It's their policy. No doubt they have also infiltrated the Liberal, Conservative and Social Credit parties and the Chamber of Commerce. The ones in the Chamber of Commerce are the boys you have to worry about, because you'll never learn who they are."

However, she wouldn't accept my argument.

Then I got into a discussion with my friend Alec Mesirman,

No Tears or Whines

My two little boys had a day off from school, because their teacher was away. Older boy had to go to the dentist and have $19 worth of teeth filled (too much candy). He was brave about it—no tears or whines.

Out for a visit to the race track. Just as we arrived, betting closed for the third race. My wife was angry, because she had wanted to bet a horse called Stolen Love—owned by Don Carley of Victoria.

It wasn't because she knew anything about horses. A number of women like to bet on horses with "Love" in their names. It's one of their foibles. Foolishness, of course. But Stolen Love won, and paid $8.40.

The wildly excited little boys, both wearing red sweaters and short pants, rocketed back and forth through the crowds, climbed on my shoulders and scrambled from there to the rail to watch the horses go by.

I remembered that Bill Matlock made a habit of placing one bet only during the afternoon. The Number Three horse in the fourth race. Just for fun I followed his example, with a $3 combination. The Number Three horse, Pet House, won.

"Aha!" I said to my wife, "here's a horse with 'Love' in its title: Plover Call." Bet it, $3 combination. Darned if it didn't run second.

John, seven, tugged at my sleeve and implored me to bet something called Royal Rice in the sixth. I thought I knew better. Royal Rice won; paid $20.40.

Had the winner in the seventh; ended up perhaps $2 ahead for the four races.

Eve-Shadow Victory

Ted Shackelford had brought a portable television set into the office, on which I was able to see the debate between U.S. presidential candidates Nixon and Kennedy. It is odd to reflect that this election, described as the most important in America's history, may be lost or won by a streak of eye-shadow on Nixon's face. It seems that the makeup man did a poor job on his face for the last TV appearance and he looked like a ghost as a result.

Too much machinery around the office, so we had to view Nixon through a snowstorm, and couldn't see how well his face had been decorated this time. But viewers elsewhere in town reported that he looked strong, determined, beetle-browed and stubble-chinned.

The newspapers said a "freelance makeup man" had given him the treatment. Now there's an odd way to make a living. Does a free-lance makeup man send out bids for the contract to beautify famous faces, the way free-lance writers send queries to editors on proposed articles?

Nixon and Kennedy seemed agreed that Russians were dangerous and that Americans probably would have to pay more taxes.

However, they seemed to have true differences of opinion on several important subjects.

I would bet on Nixon—not because he is the better man, but because he looks older and stronger. That's what counts with the majority of voters. Policies and principles don't matter much. The hand that wields the eyebrow pencil may rule the world.

Fight Your Personality Termites

Make People Like You!

By LEORD KORDEL

(Twelfth of a Series)

Personality termites are any and all of the negative emotions, fears, thoughts, opinions, prejudices and ingrained habits that have an adverse effect upon your mental and physical health—which in turn affects your whole life.

It's impossible for me to tell, even if I had radar or extrasensory perception, exactly what your particular termites are.

PRECISE TYPE
It may take a thorough, searching self-examination to disclose the precise type of termite that may have fastened itself on you.

I was waiting in a restaurant for Fred Harris. Halfway through the meal Fred stormed in. His face was almost purple, and his forehead and upper lip were beaded with perspiration.

NO CREDIT

"Don't order anything for me," he said, "except a double Scotch and soda. I'm so angry I couldn't eat a bite!"

"My boss never gives credit where it's due. He takes my ideas and uses them as his own and ends up by actually believing that they are his! That's why I hate the guy!"

Without realizing it, Fred was harboring three destructive personality termites: anger, hatred and suspicion.

"Whether you like it or not," I said, "your boss may be right."

"By skipping meals, both your mind and body become under-nourished and unable to function properly."

Motor and Controls

Stolen, Police Told

Theft of a 35 h.p. motor, remote controls and battery, from a boat parked near Songhees Road, was reported to police yesterday by Harbor Marine.

"You let your damaging negative emotions go on a rampage because you're so under par physically that you can't control them."

Uncontrolled emotions are usually the sign of a chemical deficiency in the body.

GAIN CONTROL
When your body and mind become weakened because of inadequate nutrition, your emotions overbalance them and gain control of your life. I continued:

"Remember that your emotional behavior and development depend upon exterminating your particular personality termites of anger, hatred, and suspicion."

HIGH-BALANCED
"So instead of skipping meals, becoming undernourished and increasingly irritable and careless in your work, why not eat three well-balanced high-protein meals a day?"

When you skip a meal or eat too little protein, you set the stage for hatred and anger by letting your blood sugar drop below normal. If you want to be able to stand up to stress, you should take a better than average amount of the B-complex vitamins, which are known as the antifatigue, antitoxic and anti-stress factors.

CALM NERVES

Calcium is the mineral that keeps your nerves calm. Vitamin D helps you absorb calcium, which accounts for the fact that your nerves and disposition improve in the summer when you're outdoors in the sun a lot.

Your Good Health

Can't Make Child Healthy By Stuffing Pills in Him

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

Exercise, fresh air, proper diet and adequate rest are the basic ingredients of health, but vaccinations, "pure" water, safe food supplies and other measures—which have conquered smallpox, typhoid, rickets, scurvy, etc., are important.

However, since I'm speaking today of what individuals can do for themselves and for their children, add one more, a good mental attitude, which means accepting the fact that life is good and that worry doesn't solve anything. Thinking, yes. Fretting and fear, no.

Anyway, a letter comments:

"Dear Doctor: The heading of your column read 'Too Much Sitting Is A Health Hazard.' At 40, my health is 100 per cent better than it has been at any time since birth. I have been exercising for the last four years!"

"My 11-year-old daughter has always played outdoors daily, even when it was raining. She is the healthiest child within miles, and rarely has a cold."

"My neighbor, a nurse, is forever popping pills into her children's mouths and warning that they'll break bones if they are active outdoors. And already they all have chronic illnesses."

"I hope you can educate the public on the merits of diet, exercise and positive thinking. Most people sit and wish for energy, when they should get up and create their own.—Mrs. Q. W."

That says it. I wouldn't let a child get chilled, but keeping one where there's fresh air, and well-dressed for whatever temperature is right.

You can't smother children in cotton wool. You can't make them healthy by stuffing pills in them. I can see no reason to change the principle I've followed for years: Never give medicine unless you know what you are giving it for.

There is no pill, no food, no wishful thinking that will take the place of exercise for anyone, young or old. I don't mean that a soft, sedentary individual of 35 or 45 or 55 can go out and indulge in violent exercise. Exercise should suit both age and condition.

John D Invites 22 Groups

Big Job Parley Called

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has invited 22 national organizations to a round-table conference here Oct. 24-25 on employment problems.

Each of the organizations representing all segments of labor and management are asked to send one delegate to produce ideas for creating more jobs.

EXCHANGE VIEWS

While Mr. Diefenbaker will be chairman of the meeting and provincial and municipal governments are not included in the invitation list, the conference is intended to be a multilateral exchange of views.

T. R. McLAGAN

To each of the 22 bodies, Mr. Diefenbaker wrote:

"Naturally we would expect the representative of your association to provide in this way to the government any suggestions which your association wishes to make for further additional action on this important issue."

AMONG DELEGATES

Among the delegates invited are Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress; T. R. McLagan, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association; Donald L. Morrell, general manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce; H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, and H. W. Thomson, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

Adenauer's Opinion:

Defence by U.S. All That's Left

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is reported to have told Premier Michel Debre Friday there is no longer any great power in Europe and the continent can be defended only with the United States.

The visiting French premier was said to have replied that the French want American troops to stay in the front line in Europe and that certain utterances of President de Gaulle have been misinterpreted.

Debre and Adenauer ranged over a host of subjects in the first day of their two-day meeting here. The accent was on de Gaulle's call for a reform of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the political integration of Europe.

Adenauer was concerned about what has come to be accepted here as the go-it-alone attitude of the French, based on de Gaulle's proposal for national rather than integrated NATO forces in Europe.

Debre was quoted as saying France has no intention of going it alone but that European states must do more to defend themselves in case the Americans one day pull out of the continent.

Transit Men Dismissal Suggested

TORONTO (CP)—The executive committee of Metropolitan Toronto council recommended Friday dismissal of the five men who run Metro Toronto's $1,000,000 transit system.

Dismissal was recommended in a complete reconstitution of the transit authority because the public has lost confidence due to constant bickering in commission meetings.

Servers' Guild Opens Rally With Banquet

More than 100 Vancouver Island members of the Anglican Church Servers' Guild of the Diocese of B.C. began their 10th annual convention yesterday with a banquet in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall.

Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, discussed the value of guild work and encouraged members to carry on.

The group was first formed in Victoria in 1950 with eight members, and has grown to a membership of 350, serving in most Island centres.

Also attending the banquet were Archbishop Harold E. Sexton and Rev. William Hills, a sponsor of the organization.

Today's activities will include: Holy communion in Christ Church Cathedral at 8:15 a.m.; swimming at the Crystal Garden, 11 a.m.; luncheon, barbecue at 12:15 p.m.; and a dance at Memorial Hall at 8:30 p.m.

New officers will be inducted at the 11 a.m. service Sunday in the cathedral.

Cancer Vaccine 'Possible'

SEATTLE (AP)—Development of a serum or vaccine to prevent certain types of cancer is not a remote possibility, Dr. John Rudolph Schenken, University of Nebraska pathologist, said Friday.

Between 10 and 15 different types of cancer have been caused artificially in animals by the introduction of a virus, he told a Washington state meeting of the American Cancer Society.

"Since a virus appears to be the causative agent, it is probable that a serum or vaccine could be developed that might prevent them," he said.

MR. JAMES E. COYNE, governor of the Bank of Canada has been expressing deep concern at the U.S. control of many Canadian industries, but what about the U.S. domination of international unions operating in Canada?

Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies are at least bound by Canadian laws, regulations and trade agreements, but Canadian locals of international unions are not.

Mr. James Hoffa, head of the controversial Teamsters Union, in a television interview on CBC during his visit to Vancouver last week cleared up this point of legal autonomy, which has been a source of misgiving and doubt among many Canadian unionists attached to American unions.

Mr. Hoffa said he was opposed to local unions operating under trusteeship and it was pointed out to him that his local union in Vancouver was under such a trusteeship.

This conversation followed between Mr. Hoffa and his interviewer, Mr. D. Collins.

H—"Of course, and we are prohibited by a federal court order from releasing them."

C—"You mean American law applies in Canada?"

H—"Yes. Because we are an American organization we are bound by the Landon, Kennedy, Griffin bill, and we are bound by the decisions and judgments as officers of the international union who live in America."

Stockpiling Medical Aids

THE chief of the emergency health services branch of the federal health department, speaking in Amnrior, the civil defence centre of Canada, told of the large medical stockpile to be spread across the nation. What are termed "packaged" hospitals will be shipped to various places, together with drug and other supplies and first-aid equipment for use in event of a nuclear attack.

This is perhaps the most positive civil defence measure yet undertaken. From a civilian point of view it gives reality to what has often seemed a nebulous subject. It is a clear-cut proposition.

This split stockpile will be stored in schools, churches and other buildings for quick movement to evacuation areas should an emergency strike. Since any evacuation of people from their communities is bound to involve confusion and traffic tie-up, however, it seems strange the package hospitals would not be

... so we are prohibited both in Canada and the United States from releasing a local from trusteeship."

C—"But recently the U.S. state department issued a formal statement declaring that Canadian unions were not subject to American laws."

H—"Of course, this isn't so. They issued a statement that American laws could not apply to Canadian unions as such, but in the same issuance of clarification, at the very bottom, they state 'However, international unions located in the U.S. who administer the constitutions of their local unions must enforce them on all of their members'... and 'all our members' happens to include Canada."

Whatever else may be said against Mr. Hoffa, it cannot be denied that he is an expert on union laws and regulations, and his statement that Canadian locals of international unions are in the grip of not only their U.S. leaders, but also subject to U.S. labor laws, must be accepted as correct.

In these circumstances Canadian unionists in international unions are in the untenable position of having to pay fealty to two countries and that like serving God and Mammon does not work.

Mr. Coyne can be commended for his advocacy of Canadian independence but the sights should be set not only on U.S. dominated Canadian companies, but on U.S. dominated unions as well.

stored in the actual designated evacuation areas. They might never get to the desired locations in a crisis.

No mention has ever been made of stockpiling food in chosen areas, and this omission has long induced skepticism about the evacuation policy. Food would be just as necessary as medical supplies. Perhaps a food plan will follow on the heels of the medical scheme, however.

There is one element of confusion left, nevertheless. Is evacuation still the official civil defence policy of the nation? The medical stockpile suggests strongly that it is. Yet B.C. provincial authorities are pushing the shelter idea, and urging householders to build these for themselves. That means people should stay home under an atomic attack.

The benefits of the packaged hospitals would not accrue to them, therefore, if the hospitals are moved to outside areas on threat of attack. There would seem to be a conflict here that needs to be resolved.

Expired Driving Licences

THE action of Victoria police officers in "grounding" a car driver whose licence had expired needs no defence. It was unfortunate that the incident occurred late at night and that passengers had to leave the car along with the driver; but it is not disputed that the police attitude was courteous and helpful.

The matter was discussed by the police commission, and in commenting on it Commissioner Hamilton pointed out that the police would have been in "an awful situation" if the driver had been allowed to proceed home and had got into an accident on the way.

It is equally important to note that so would the driver. An accident where there is injury or property damage can be an exceedingly serious matter for an unlicensed driver—and one is driving unlawfully even if the licence expired only the day before.

The publicity given to this incident should help to remind all motorists of their responsibility in this respect. Drivers MUST keep their own check on the expiry dates of licences, which should not be difficult since they have their birthdays to remind them.

The superintendent of motor vehicles has offered a useful suggestion: that every driver on the approach of his birthday should look at his licence to see if that is the year in which it becomes renewable. Otherwise, under the five-year licence system, that important duty may be overlooked.

It is known to the authorities that at any given time there are thousands of motorists driving with licences that have expired and not been renewed. In the great majority of cases the omission is due to forgetfulness and nothing worse; but the penalties and risks are the same as if there were intentional evasion. Since the recent installation of electronic machines the motor licence branch is now able to send out reminders; but the driver remains wholly responsible and non-receipt of a notice is not a valid excuse.

Interpreting the News

Wearing a Little Thin

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE spat between India and Australia in the United Nations General Assembly appears to be another in a series of developments that may strain Commonwealth relations and raise new questions about the future of this unique family of nations.

Nehru came to the UN aligned with four other so-called "neutral" countries appealing for an immediate summit conference between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower put up "conditions" which Khrushchev would have to meet before another summit could take place. These were conditions that might make Khrushchev lose face at home.

The Soviet leader countered with conditions of his own that would make Eisenhower lose face.

But Nehru and his neutrals persisted. It became increasingly clear to the United States it might be faced with a situation where it would have to turn down a UN request. Those supporting the U.S. position came through with a series of proposals tending to water down the neutrals' appeal.

Among these was Australia's suggestion for a resumption of a four-power summit meeting sometime in the unspecified future.

Australia's proposal apparently was suspect because Menzies made it after a weekend conference with Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain. It may be a matter of embarrassment for Menzies that he was rebuffed 45 to 5 with only Canada, France, Britain and the U.S. supporting Australia.

In any case Nehru felt repulsed by the parliamentary maneuvering of those supporting the U.S. and withdrew his proposal, but with apparently some feeling he was being bludgeoned into a corner.

There undoubtedly remains some strain between the two Commonwealth prime ministers that could spill over into future conferences.

The Secret Face Of Africa—II

Witchcraft and Blood Lust

By R. J. B.

THE tribal African witchdoctor is among other things the repository of the tribe's knowledge. It is he who instructs the African in the history and sacred rites of his people and instills in him an all-consuming fear of the spirits and the futility of trying to break away from the old beliefs, playing a leading role in the tribal ceremonies which govern the tribesman's life.

When an African is born he immediately falls under the spell of tribal law when certain marks are placed on his body during the time his mother is undergoing her purification ceremonies. If the child is one of twins, either he or his sibling will be left to die in the jungle or on the river bank for the simple reason that multiple births are an evil omen.

As the child grows older he will be gradually indoctrinated into the customs of his people. He will be given certain chores to do and for a time comes mainly under the protection of his mother. In many tribes, though, practices do differ among them, a boy child will receive nothing but stern rebuffs and even blows from his father during the early years of his life. Yet he learns to look upon his father with respect and awe, for his father is simply demonstrating a warrior's strength. His mother, on the other hand, who prepares his food and tends his ills, is looked upon as someone weak and beneath consideration.

The child becomes well versed in tribal life in early life. If a girl, she will have the marks of the tribe put upon her face and chest, her earlobes stretched and in some tribes her nose will be pierced and her lips deformed. If a boy, he will have tribal marks scarred on his face and body by clay being injected under the skin to raise permanent welts impossible to hide. He will also be instructed in the history and customs of his tribe and be taught the art of war by his father, the elders and the witchdoctor.

At the age of 12 or thereabouts (the age differs with the tribe) it is considered that the child has matured sufficiently to be officially initiated into the tribe through the circumcision ceremony. Both sexes in most Central and Eastern African tribes are circumcised under brutal and unhygienic circumstances.

The female children are operated on in a most crude fashion which often leaves them permanently mutilated. While the ceremony takes place the adults dance and shout to drown the anguished screams of the tortured young victims.

It is much the same with the boys—but they must remain mute, for if they scream or even grimace in pain they are forever condemned to live with the women of the tribe.

After this gory procedure the next phase takes place. This varies among the tribes but its purpose is the same: to make the boy a man and a warrior by exciting and satiating his normal male biological urges; by making him self-reliant in the jungle or on the veldt; by raising his dominant blood lust, and by impressing on him for all time the infallibility of the tribal spirits.

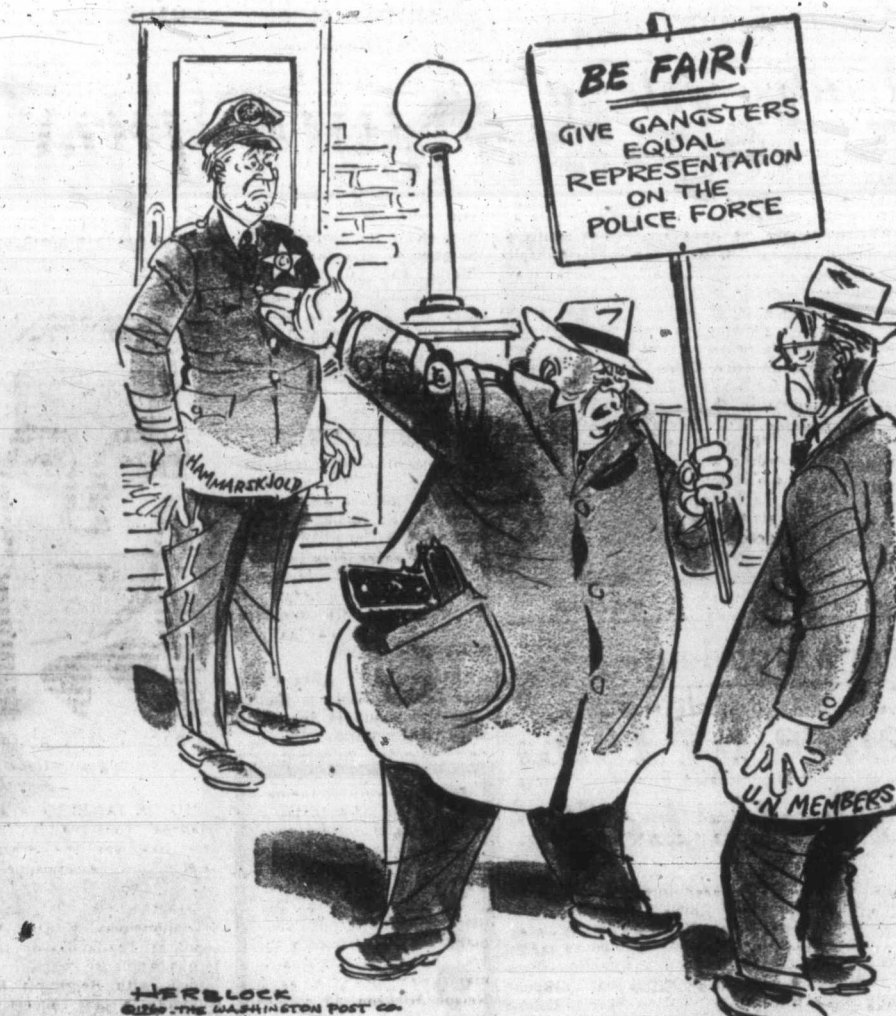

A good example of how this is accomplished is given by the tribal rites followed by the Wakamba tribe of East Africa.

After the first part of the circumcision ceremony is completed, the boys and girls are taken to the tribe's sacred ground. There, in a jungle clearing, are two huts some dozen yards apart. The boys are placed in one and the girls in the other. They lie down head to head and are ordered not to move until the spirits release them. There they stay, immovable and silent for three days and nights, hungry and thirsty and regardless of the natural physical functions of the body.

During this time the tribal spirits visit the clearing (in the shape of the witchdoctors and elders) to make the night hideous with their screams and imprecations. On the last night, food and drink in plenty are secretly placed in the clearing and at a given signal the children are released from their immobility and allowed to emerge from the huts and eat.

After feasting to the point that they can feast no more, the boys and girls join together in a prolonged orgy which lasts for another three days and nights. At the conclusion of this the girls' ceremony has finished. They, in effect, have only been a minor adjunct to a rite primarily designed for the male members of the tribe.

The next part of the ceremony is perhaps the most important of all. After being anointed with secret herbs and lotions by the witchdoctor the boys are taken separately into the bush to different points as much as 100 miles from their village. This means several days' march for the boy and his mentors, the boy being blindfolded all the while. On reaching a given point, the boy is stripped and given a single short stabbing spear and told to find his way back. The guides then disappear, some to return to their homes, others to watch

"How can we trust a man who is prejudiced against crime?"

Reports from Ottawa

THE Unemployed Cabinet Minister joined us at our table in the Commons coffee shop and before he finished stirring his sugar he was away on his favorite topic. Which is, basically, how can he get his old job back?

The UCM doesn't put it that bluntly. His goal is the return of the Liberal Party to power so the country will enjoy the multifold benefits of good Grit government. It will be quite incidental that he, a private MP at $10,000 a year, will then become a cabinet minister again at $27,000 a year.

He is optimistic: Quebec. New Brunswick. Gallup Poll. What did we think?

Color, we replied. This man Diefenbaker's got it, we said—although we weren't prepared to state how much is genuine, and how much is the artifice of that talented huckster of the Diefenbaker personality, Alister Grosart—euphemistically titled national director of the Tory party.

But our man's got color, the UCM protested. Hero of Suez. Baseball player. Worked in a packinghouse. Fighter pilot. Nobel Peace Prize winner. What more d'ya want?

Why did he stop wearing bow ties, we asked? His bow tie was his trademark and his I-card. It was like Winnie's cigar, and Roosevelt's cigar holder, only better—it identified him with the ordinary guy.

Ordinary guys don't wear bow ties, the UCM asserted. You ask anyone "Would you vote for a man with a bow tie?" he'll say, "No." I've asked lots of people.

We suggested he was just accepting the opinion that some professor peddled over the CBC a few months ago—that a person who wears a bow tie is a non-conformist, and that people who conform dislike those who don't.

Not at all, the UCM said. I don't know whether conformity has anything to do with it, but our survey shows the bow tie makes people think of bow-tie diplomacy.

And what's that, we asked? I don't know, he confessed. It's a term of ridicule, like striped pants, or ivory tower, or egghead. But just because you can't define what it means doesn't mean it's not bad for our boy.

By the way, said the UCM as he downed his empty cup, did you hear what they're saying about Dief?

What's that? we bit. That he's a sexagenarian. And Grosart is scared we'll use it on the hustings. But we don't dare. It could boomerang, you know. They might call our man a sexagenarian, too.

You've got to be careful, all right, we opined, aware that four sets of shocked stenographic ears were listening from the next table. Well... we said, stirring in our chair, getting ready to leave.

But what about this color business, the UCM lapel-snatched. Mike's jaunty, boyish look isn't good for votes. We toned that down by getting rid of the bow tie. But there must be something more we can do. If we could turn a cold-blooded corporation lawyer into Uncle Loole...

We squeezed behind his chair. Tell your boss, we said, to wear T-shirts. No tie. Then nobody will believe he's a sexagenarian. You can also say, with perfect truth, that Dief's often been observed entering the House of Commons in an exacerbated condition. Think what that'd do to the temperance vote!

The Packstack

Grandfather's Proteins

By GREGORY CLARK

ON the bus, a man asked me if I had seen any hawks this year on their big migration last month. I said no, but I had seen a flight of 150 black-bellied plover going south in August, a magical sight as they lifted and hissed through the air over my head.

"My grandmother," I said, "who was born in 1840, lived in Toronto, and she told me of the stupendous flights of wild passenger pigeons going over the little city sometimes all day long, millions of them in a silent flow like smoke from horizon to horizon. There were marshes on both sides of the town, and wild ducks, geese, shore birds like plover and snipe, streamed across the Toronto sky a familiar element of the character of the city. And in spring and fall every provision shop, butcher, grocer, had festoons of wild game hanging by his door; and in autumn, deer hung by the windows."

"Yes," said my fellow passenger. "We've been beef eaters for comparatively a short time. Beef was too hard to transport. Not enough land was cleared for extensive pastures. Until our fathers' time, we Canadians were pork eaters. A cow has one calf. A sow presents us with 10 pigs. Pork and game were our grandparents' proteins."

The boy leaves the starting point at dawn the next day and has to utilize all his training in bush-lore to make his way. If he runs into enemy tribesmen or perhaps a lion or a leopard he must fight his way through—no help will be offered by his secret watchers. The route back takes him through almost impenetrable jungle, dangerous swamps, and crocodile infested rivers where every step is fraught with peril. He must feed himself on game and wild fruit and roots and find himself a safe place to sleep every night.

The journey may take a week or more, but even when the village is in sight, he still has more to do. Firstly he must get through the sentry lines without being seen—otherwise he may easily be speared by one of his own tribesmen. Once through the picket lines he has to crawl unseen to his father's hut and enter it without waking his parents.

Once in the hut, tribal law demands that he commit, in Western eyes, an act of supreme indecency upon his father. Having successfully completed this he is then accepted as a warrior and takes his place as a man in the tribe.

It should be noted that the Wakamba are a warrior tribe and considered among the aristocracy of Africa. They are highly intelligent people and are among the finest wood-craftsmen in the whole continent. Tribes of less intelligence have far more gruesome ceremonies—ceremonies which, indeed, would place the foregoing in the category of moderation.

Communist Tricks

Boring from Within

By DR. JOHANNES SCHNEIDER
Public Prosecutor

DORTMUND—In the last few years the Communists have several times had to change their methods in attempting to spread sedition in West German armed forces, since they have achieved no successes worthy of the name. They have not yet given up, however.

Their so-called "letter campaign"—in which letters were at first sent from East Germany to members of the armed forces, the border police, and to potential conscripts—turned out to be a gross blunder whose origin was betrayed by East German postage stamps on the envelopes. The addresses in the barracks could hardly miss this. The "independent department" of the East German ministry of national defence then started having the letters taken to the west in bulk by couriers using suitcases on interzonal trains. They try in this way to outsmart the West German customs service. In West Germany, the letters are then sent in small quantities from various places.

The weakness of this Communist method lies in the necessity of crossing the border, and above all in the fact that the West German justice authorities were able virtually to predict the reappearance of such couriers, thanks to discreet investigation into their regular habits and use of the same routes.

This led to some successful interceptions by the police. Thereupon the East started setting up bases in West Germany. The leaders of these bases have the services of envelope-addressers and letter-posters, most of whom are not informed of the nature of their work. The base leader himself is supplied with plenty of West German money and if necessary he is given enough to buy himself a car. In addition, according to evidence gained in interrogations, he has officer rank in the East German "National People's Army" and is even said to receive the army pay, in East German currency, paid into a blocked account in the East German central bank for use in case he has to flee!

In the province of North Rhine-Westphalia alone, three such bases have recently been rooted out in the Rhine and Ruhr area. Printed material mainly consists of lavishly illustrated seditious publications with the titles "Barracks," "Taboo" and "Little News Review." Some of these even today are sent direct from East Germany in the old way. These publications make extensive use of sex, and some are indecent.

The East German authorities blandly make use of forgery, too. Potential conscripts have received forged official army orders, complete with rubber stamp and signature, in which confusing announcements were made. In a forged communication of the West German forces' security office they were told that they should answer a summons from the military recruiting office only when it was made verbally—instead of in writing, as is usual—because "the Communists have recently been disturbing recruiting." The conscripts could naturally wait a long time before receiving any verbal summons.

Actual disruption of recruiting by the East German "Independent Department" has nevertheless remained within bounds because of the alertness of the conscripts themselves.

'Paradise Island'

"Follow the birds to Victoria" is most acceptable and is well established throughout the country to prospective tourists. Why change it now?

"Treasure Island" is enigmatic and means nothing. I could suggest a more meaningful name, such as "Paradise Island," because here we have an equable climate with no extremes in summer or winter; average rainfall about 26 inches, which is about one-half of the annual record at Vancouver or Seattle, both only 80 miles away; some wind but no hurricanes or tornados. There is no poison-oak or poison-ivy growing on this island; there are no rattlesnakes, grizzly bears or timber wolves; yes, a few cougars, and an abundance of deer, game-birds and many sorts of sea and fresh-water fish. The beautiful vistas of seascapes, landscapes, forests and mountains, all of which are incomparable, truly "Paradise Isle."

Many years ago the CPR conducted cruise-ship tours right around the island, calling at many ports, including fisheries, whaling stations and mines such as Port Renfrew, Nootka, Bamerton cable-station, Sidney Inlet, Albert, Winter Harbor, Quatsino, Port Alice, Hardy Bay, Berni Bay. These cruises were very popular and I heard some glowing reports from people who had made the trip, even from Victorians.

Just a passing thought, which I pass along to the Victoria publicity bureau.

Let Them Choose

Referring to renaming Government House, which in my opinion warrants a change: it is such a handsome building and so beautifully situated it calls for more dignity.

His Honor Mr. Ross and his lady were such gracious hosts, wouldn't it be a nice gesture to give them the honor of choosing a suitable name?

Mr. Ross being of Scottish birth, lived there until he came to Canada; Mrs. Ross purchased numerous pieces in Scotland to furnish Government House.

Scotland must be a beautiful place. When we were children, my parents used to talk about their native land by the hour.

(Mrs.) ELLA TAYLOR.

Cigaret Fuses

I see by this morning's paper (Oct. 6) another man burnt to death smoking a cigarette in bed. I read recently that 200 people in the U.S. died this way last year. I haven't any figures for Canada.

I drove through Beacon Hill Park a few weeks ago and saw many acres of dried grass and I figured that one cigarette dropped there at the right time and we would lose a park.

The remedy is simple and won't cost a lot of money. You can't stop people smoking cigarettes. A pipe goes out and so does a cigar, but these tailor-made cigarettes when thrown or laid down alight, don't go out, they run like a fuse and do almost incredible damage. Ask your local fire chief.

I hear the cigarette makers put saltpeter into their cigarettes. Pass a short law prohibiting the making and selling of cigarettes containing whatever causes them to run like a fuse when dropped alight.

We are burning up our forests and causing almost incredible losses every year and we can't afford it. Why not do something, instead of preaching about it?

Africa WondersRepublic Victory Or Bad Omen?

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) —South Africa is assessing the possible far-reaching consequences of its referendum changing the country from a constitutional monarchy with the Queen as chief of state to a republic with a president.

Result of Wednesday's referendum was seen here as a personal victory for Premier Verwoerd and his policy of racial segregation.

BAD OMEN

Opposition forces considered the vote a bad omen due to the threat of expulsion from the Commonwealth.

The big majority—the 10,000,000 Negroes and those of mixed blood—could not vote. This was seized upon by Dr. Jan. Steytler, leader of the opposition Progressive party, in saying the vote was not an endorsement of Verwoerd's policies of white domination since the vast majority could not make their views known.

UNANIMOUS

In Britain, newspaper opinion almost unanimously condemned the referendum. Some newspapers called for Britain to take a lead in excluding South Africa from the Commonwealth.

The Guardian of Manchester said Britain should make it clear that any nation that "repudiates the traditions which we and our fellow-members claim to observe" is no longer welcome.

Stolen Rings Found Victorian Charged

Discovery by city police Thursday night of 68 new rings, worth $1,000, in possession of a young Victorian led to his appearance in city police court yesterday, and to enlistment of police in Washington state in a search for the owner.

Sidney Travers, 975-A Fairfield, charged with possession of stolen property, reserved election and plea to obtain counsel and was remanded to Tuesday. Sales tickets indicated the rings were from the U.S.

A four-month jail term was given to Derek Peter Myles, 22, of HMCS Naden, convicted of causing bodily harm in an assault on Donald Gummerson, Naden.

Church Offer

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)
—A Methodist minister here is offering trading stamps to each person attending Sun-

Rev. Robert Boggs said he is doing it because "it's my impression that some feel more at home where trading stamps are offered than they do in church service."

Memorials Dedicated

A number of memorials will be dedicated Sunday at the Church of Our Lord during a special service conducted by Bishop D. A. G. Ranklor.
Among the memorials are three sets of embroidered Bible markers and two prayer desk hassocks of needlepoint.
Harvest thanksgiving will be observed during both of the day's services.

Thanksgiving Service Set

A special thanksgiving service will be held Monday at 11 a.m. at the First Church of Christ, Scientist.
Expressions of praise and gratitude to God will be read.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Modern man is gasping for God, for truth and for brotherhood. Without them life is not worth living.
Consult the suicide rate! Now in Christian worship three dominant ideas must be declared—the adoration of God, the message of God and the people of God.
Loss of any one results in superficial, sterile faith.
When scholars use words like Mysterium, Kerygma, and Oikonomia, they are not mouthing theological mumbojumbo, but refer to these essential constituents of Christianity, the first expressing itself in the liturgy, the second in dogma and the third in brotherhoods, groups, colonies and welcoming handshakes at the church door.

LOSE THEMSELVES

Neglect of any one is disastrous, so some churches lose themselves in phantasy of chants and prayers. Others become "preacher-centred."
Others are mere community halls or recreation centres.
The liturgical-sacramental revival in the church is healthy and necessary. Much worship resembles a lecture or concert rather than a rendezvous with eternity, a man-centred performance rather than a declaration of the glory of God.
TRAGIC CONTEMPT
Yet remember that religions in decay have always emphasized externals and today we see the same tragic contempt for the moral and spiritual demands of God which distressed Amos and Micah. "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" God's truth must be declared.

CASUAL, UNPREPARED

Casual, unprepared sauntering into church as a mere spectator utterly misses the meaning of worship. "Liturgy" in its root means "the work of the people." Often the people are not involved.
With the gestalt of the Cross before us, we are bid to be the tragic guilt between man and God and ignore our only escape from the doom of sin and death. In our puffed up pride of knowledge and self-righteousness, we are not receptive to Isaiah's vision in the Temple.
Only those who, knowing their unworthiness, humbly stand in the place of martyrs and apostles, join in comradeship with other lovers of God on the eternal pilgrimage and give their hearts, minds and bodies to the hymns and prayers hallowed by centuries of sacred devotion, are "lost in wonder, love, and praise."

New Lutheran Church

Uses Two Languages

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cedar Hill and Hillside, will hold its first service Sunday in two languages, English and German.
The church, formerly known as the Dutch Reformed Church, has just been redecorated and modernized.
Rev. A. Goos, assistant to the president of the synod of Western Canada, will give the first sermon at 10.30 a.m. Sunday in German. A sermon in English will be given at 1.30 p.m.
Pastor of the church, Rev.
J. E. Vergusch, said: "This is the first church of our own."
There are about 200 people in my congregation and the majority is German speaking.

Pirates Not Impressed By Yankee Performance

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The unimpressed Pittsburgh Pirates, battered 16-3 as the New York Yankees squared the world series, Thursday, laughed off any psychological scars.

Today's game between Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees will be seen on channels 2, 5 and 6 starting at 8:45 a.m.

Friday as they prepared to send Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell against Whitey Ford in a southpaw duel at Yankee Stadium.

"They've got to be wondering a little now," Yogi Berra of the Yankees summed up the general impression that the second game massacre might have broken the morale of the Pirates.

But the Bucs, 7½ to 5 underdogs for their 1 p.m. EDT (9 a.m. PST) debut in the vast reaches of Yankee Stadium, scoffed at the idea.

"The series is not decided by total runs," said burly Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh. "What we did the day before never had any bearing on our next performance."

"Psychological scars?" snorted shortstop Dick Groat, the Pirate captain. "We didn't even have a scratch."

"Yesterday is forgotten and all we care about is tomorrow," added third baseman Don Hoak.

The Pirates apparently were going to have ideal conditions to prove themselves when the series resumes after a day off for travel.

The forecast was for clear skies, with the temperature in the high 60's, with little or no wind to complicate fielding problems.

The Yankees, now 9½ favorites to win the series as a result of their 19-hit winning barrage in the second game, were quietly confident that the stubborn Ford, who had a 12-9 record this year, would put them in front as hostilities resume.

But even the decisiveness of their second game triumph didn't earn them a day off. They arrived from Pittsburgh by train at 8:30 a.m., and two hours later were taking an hour's batting practice at the stadium.

Murtaugh led his Pirates onto the Yankee stadium diamond for the first time at 1 p.m. for a workout "as close to game conditions as possible." He and the entire squad appeared highly confident that Mizell, who won 14 games against eight losses this season, would put them ahead again in today's third game.

FIRST TIME
"I saw the series here two years ago when the Yankees played the Braves, but I wasn't ever on this field until today," he said, staring around at the sprawling premises and paying particular attention to left field.

That spot, to be patrolled for the Bucs today by Gino Cimoli, figures to be one of the greatest Pirate danger spots because of late inning shadows. "My three guys from Brooklyn, Cimoli, Hoak and (Rocky) Nelson, all say it's pretty rough but we'll cope with it," Murtaugh said confidently.

There was some speculation that outfielder Bob Skinner might be lost to the Bucs for the rest of the series because of a swollen left thumb, although Murtaugh said X-rays proved negative and "I would have played Cimoli against Ford anyway because he's a right-handed hitter."

The Pirate manager made one other shift, putting the right-handed hitting Hal Smith behind the plate in place of left-handed hitting Smokey Burgess.

While Stengel was mulling over his starting lineup, Murtaugh announced that he would lead off with Virdon. Groat, the National League batting champion, will hit second, followed by right fielder Roberto Clemente, first baseman Dick Stuart, Cimoli, Smith, Hoak, second baseman Bill Mazeroski and Mizell.

ON CALL
Murtaugh said that Clem Labine, Fred Green and Joe Gibbon would be available for early relief of Mizell "if necessary" with little Elroy Face, the fireman, on call from the sixth inning onward.

Stengel was holding back his batting order as he tried to decide how to get Berra into the lineup. Yogi, who has appeared in a record 63 series contests and sets a new record every time out, apparently will be on the sidelines for the first time since 1947—and this is the 11th series for the Yanks since that time.

WANTS HOWARD
That's because Stengel wants Elston Howard behind the plate and he would rather have right handed hitters Hector Lopez or Bob Cerv patrolling that unpredictable left field.

"They're both capable right-handed hitters," Stengel said undecidedly, adding that he was reluctant to keep Berra on the bench. "I'll have to wait until tomorrow to decide on my lineup."

However, he did say that veteran Gil McDougald would be at third instead of slick fielding Cletis Boyer because "he's a more experienced man."

LINEUP SET
The rest of the Yankee lineup is set with Mickey Mantle in centre field, Roger Maris in right field, Moose Skowron at first base, Bobby Richardson at second base and Tony Kubek at shortstop.

Ted Williams, the retired home run king of the Boston Red Sox, will throw out the first ball before close to 70,000 fans. Then the other hitters will take over—and even the superficially confident Pirates had to be wondering whether those Yankee bats would thunder as they had in that final bombardment at Pittsburgh.

Last-Minute Rider Switch Gives Rossburn New Life

There wasn't much doubt about which horses were going to be the quinnella horses in the seventh race at Sandown Park Friday night after Fayum and Rossburn broke out on top after leaving the starting gate.

The pair ran one-two for the entire six furlongs and paid off at $31.70. There was some doubt, in fact plenty of it, that Rossburn would get to run.

On the parade to the post, Rossburn threw jockey Jimmy Sivewright, jumped the rail and was finally caught. Apprentice Inky Anderson then leaped into the saddle and hand-rod Rossburn, a 12½ shot, just a stride behind Fayum, who was getting a solid job of riding from Fernando Auger.

Sivewright suffered a slightly cut foot but will accept his mounts today.

Biggest price of the day came in the sixth race when Royal Rice raced back to his opening-day performance and nipped Chatworth at the wire for a $20.40 payoff.

Otherwise, it was a day of comparatively modest prices. Betting handle was up again, for the 11th time in 12 days of racing and total pari-mutuel play for this season over last is up more than $83,000.

The track was in a drying condition, and if the weather cooperates, might be

Cougars Handle Penticton Easily

PENTICTON — Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League, on skates for only a week, opened a five-game exhibition schedule here Friday night by trouncing Penticton 5, 3.

The Cougars, an unknown quantity this season, indicated they might be a little better than expected with three rookies scoring goals in the easy victory.

Bert Fizzell and Don Wilson, up from the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, and Bill Swarbrick, a veteran from the Okanagan League who won't be able to qualify as a rookie because of his age, each scored during a five-goal second period which made it a rout.

Jim Mopp, rated by coach George Agar as a player who could provide his club with a lot of goals this season, scored twice.

Other Victoria goals were by defencemen Don McLeod and holdover forwards Doug Macauley and Gerry Goyer. Cougars played without defenceman Hugh Currie, who was playing for the all-stars in the annual WHL all-star game in Vancouver. But they had a capable replacement in veteran Carl Kaiser, who showed up at the Vernon training camp determined to make the club. He chipped in with four assists.

Pat Ginnell had two assists and Swarbrick, Doug Anderson and Macauley one each.

After scoring twice in the first three minutes, the Cougars were held until the second period, when they ran their lead to 7-0. They let down in the final 20 minutes and goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier lost his shutout at 2:06. He was under pressure all the way in the last period as the V's threw 22 shots his way.

Father Knows Best

BURY, England (AP)—The family of Raymond Smith has decided that charity begins at home. So he will not, after all, give away the $28,649 ($80,217) he won in a football pool.

Agghast at the fortune which dropped into his hands for picking eight tie games on last Saturday's British soccer program, Smith announced he wanted no part of the money. He said he would give it away as quickly as possible. But his father has talked him out of it.

All-Stars Get Past Champion Canucks

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Canucks, in most books likely to retain their Western Hockey League championship, were beaten, 4-3, in the annual all-star game, played here Friday night.

It was the first time that the game was played between the league champions and the pick of the other clubs. In the first three times it was played between selected teams from the eastern and western sections. Game proceeds go to the injured players' fund.

A crowd of 2,000 was watching when Portland Buckaroos' Art Jones, a star with Victoria Cougars last season, lifted the puck over goalkeeper Cesare Maniago midway through the third period to break a 3-3 tie. Jones got the puck after Maniago had made the stop on a shot by Arnie Schmutz. Centre Chuck Holmes of Edmonton, defenceman Fred Hucul of Calgary and winger

BOWLER'S-EYE VIEW OF NEW AURORA LANES

Bowling Roundup

Good Scores at Aurora

By JIM TAYLOR
Change of locale obviously hasn't bothered city tenpin bowlers as they make a belated start on another season at the new Aurora Lanes. Eleven bowlers in the senior league were able to average 180 or better on their first look at the new automatic lanes, and other leagues had their share of high scorers.

Best of the lot was Roy Harris, who tossed a 613 series with games of 220 and 200. Then there was Harold Paulding, who picked up a 254 single in his 539 series. Other high senior league bowlers were Roy Begg, 576 (200); Wally Rogers, 569 (200); Lloyd Chow, 561 (200); Sheldon Nipp, 555 (211); and Gil Wong, 554 (218).

Also in on the scoring spree at Aurora were Larry Lomax, 596 (226); Con McBeth, 580 (201); Ray Vater, 578 (231); Molly Mapes, 564; Doug Sprouston, 559; Len Parsons, 558 (233); Howie Hazzard, 553 (221); Rich Lou, 560 (219); and Leona Peterson, 559.

A trip to Vancouver for the Brunswick bowling fashion show Oct. 18 is being offered at Gibson's Bowladrome for ladies with the highest tenpin scores during the next week.

Entry fee is 10 cents, and bowlers can enter for either their league or open play bowling.

Bill Mowbray posted the high fivepin triple for the week, an 855 with a 331 single at Esquimalt Bowladrome.

Jack Frampton, 820 (338); Doug Crawford, 807 (311); Harry Cool, 802 (352); Jack Goldie, 795; Sena Guest, 768; Harry Smith, 758; and Alex Pylpa, 752, were other high scorers on those lanes.

At Capital City, Bill Peterson bowled 809 (318); Ken Jones had 790 (325), and Frank Fairless rolled 760.

Esquimalt's doubles fivepin tournament starts this afternoon and continues tomorrow afternoon. Final shifts are at 11 a.m., 1, 3 and 5 p.m., Thanksgiving Day.

Independent Curling League begins play Sunday at 5:45 p.m. at Victoria Curling Club. All last year's players are asked to attend.

Los Angeles (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Bill Nelsen took the reins of the Trojan warhorse last night and drove Southern California to an upset 10-3 victory over Georgia in an intercollegiate clash. He scored the game's only touchdown.

TORONTO—Tobin Rote threw two fourth-quarter payoff passes to Dick Shatto here last night to bring Toronto Argonauts from behind for a 24-14 Big Four victory over the stubborn Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The defending-champion Ticats, in a desperate struggle to gain a spot in the playoffs, gave the pro-Argo crowd of 27,494 a real scare before bowling out. Twice their tough defence stopped Argos deep in Hamilton territory, and going into the final quarter they were protecting a 14-3 lead and seemed on their way to their third victory.

Then Rote took a short passing game, picking holes in the pass defence and countering with some fine running by Shatto, Cookie Gilchrist and Dave Mann. With less than eight minutes remaining he passed to Shatto, and four minutes later hit him again for nine yards and another touchdown. Gilchrist converted both to make it 17-14.

KEY INTERCEPTION
Hamilton quarterback Bernie Faloney began throwing for the fences at that point; but Argos' Bob Deinger picked off one of his long tosses to go 60 yards for the clinching Toronto touchdown. Gilchrist again converted.

Gilchrist was a tower of strength in a bruising game, kicking a 33-yard first-quarter field goal in addition to the three converts. Faloney got the first Hamilton touchdown on a one-yard plunge and passed 60 yards to Gerry McDougall for the other.

McDougall got both converts. Rote's passing was again the difference for Argos. He completed 19 of 31 for 227 yards, Faloney 13 for 25 and 220 yards.

Today the second-place Ottawa Rough Riders, four points behind Toronto with a game in hand, host the third-place Montreal Alouettes. On Monday Toronto is at Hamilton and Ottawa plays at Montreal.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission, acting at the request of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation, Friday suspended Wilf Greaves of Edmonton, the British Empire middleweight champion.

This cost Greaves a 10-round semi-final bout with Obdulio Nunez at Madison Square Garden Oct. 15.

The CBWF informed the New York group that Greaves had been placed on its unavailable list for failing to fulfill a return bout contract with Nigerian Dick Tiger.

"We have a working agreement with the Canadian federation and complied with their request," said a commission spokesman.

TURKEY SHOOT GOES TODAY
Sidney Small Bore Gun Club will hold a turkey shoot at Sanscha Hall from noon to 10 p.m. today. Rifles are 22 calibre and no scopes are permitted. The shoot is open to all comers.

Recently re-elected as president was Doug Jack with William Stanton as vice-president, and Beryl Squier secretary-treasurer.

On the shooting committee are Bill Orchard, Dennis Scott and Tom Fenner.

Crackdown on Impaired Supported by Scurrah

"Anything to decrease the accident rate and take impaired drivers off the road" would have the support of Mayor Percy Scurrah, chairman of the city police commission, he said yesterday.

A committee of B.C. doctors has proposed that a much lower level of alcohol in the blood than the standard now accepted be recognized as proof of impairment.

George Lindsay, B.C. motor vehicles superintendent, said stiffening the law should be a federal matter, but supported the proposals, including compulsory "breathalyzer" tests in suspected impaired cases.

AT POST AND OFF AT 1:25. Time, 24.45. 119-119.5. Weather, cloudy. Track, muddy. Start, good. Won driving. Winner entered to be claimed for $500.

McIntosh was badly away from gate, took short and going into first turn, narrowly escaping trouble when Swain's Pie went wide on inside, opened up field, then accepted challenge of Her Winn through final quarter and proved gamester. Her Winn saved ground on rail throughout, but could not make winner give way. Holmes went every back of leaders. More pressure could never improve position. Val Eddie was making up ground in final stages. Swain's Pie had trouble getting around first turn and almost created a jam with riders on other mounts being fortunate in avoiding trouble. Swain's Pie was ridden by Mr. Scurrah, Campmaster. Overweight—Swain's Pie (1), Her Winn (1), Swain's Pie (1).

Broadcasts Hit

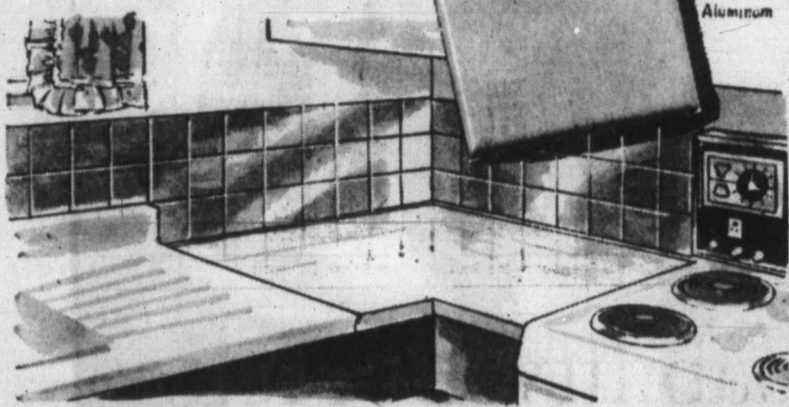

MONTREAL (CP)—Carlyle Allison of the Board of Broadcast Governors chided U.S. radio and television news directors Friday for the scarcity of Canadian news on their stations and levelled some general criticisms at broadcast news in both countries. He told the annual conference of the Radio Television

News Directors Association—a largely American body—that he thinks broadcast news is handled better in Canada than in the U.S. Because many Canadians were only two generations removed from Europe, international news was given more coverage in Canadian media than in the U.S., and

$65,000 Was Ours, Says Agriculture Group

By R. O. MARRION
Victoria city has been asked for $65,000 it apparently spent years ago.

The long-dormant B.C. Agricultural Association, now planning to build new exhibition facilities at Colwood, claims the $65,000 belongs to it, should have been held in trust for it, but was used by the city in financing the construction of the Memorial Arena.

"I think the city used the money in good faith for the arena, but in my mind there's no question about it belonging to the association," Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, president of the association, said yesterday.

Memories were being stretched and old files dusted off at city hall yesterday to uncover all facts pertinent to the association's claim.

The association said in a letter to city council finance committee that when the horse-show building and the manufacturers' building at the old Willows fairground burned down during the Second World War, the city received $65,000 in insurance.

The provincial government and the city had each provided one-half of the money for the construction of the buildings, the association said, but the association was paying principal and interest on the city's loan, and the insurance money was supposed to be held in trust until needed by the association.

Instead, the association said, the money was used in financing construction of the arena after the war.

Some city officials said yesterday that they seemed to remember that this was the case, the association having "faded away" at the time, but City Comptroller Dennis Young said he had been unable so far to find records confirming it.

Old bylaws on file indicate the city owned the Willows fairgrounds. The city first provided $25,000 to establish fair facilities in 1891, and contributed another $25,000 a short time later. At this time, ownership was vested in a board of trustees.

But in 1894 the city voted to raise $25,000 to acquire the property, and in 1906 it raised another $50,000 for additional property and buildings.

After the Second World War, city officials recalled yesterday, the Colwood Park Association bought the grounds from the city, intending to redevelop the racetrack and buildings and to lease the exhibition facilities to the agricultural association.

But, they said, Oak Bay refused to issue permits for this use of the land, and the property was sold to the municipality and subdivided for homes.

Buck Passed While Kitten Clings to Pole

By PETER BRUTON

CATSUP TROUBLE: How do you get a cat down from the top of a telephone pole? Victor Boehko, 2349 Florence, spent quite a time finding out yesterday.

About 7 a.m. he heard a cry, looked up and saw his five-month-old kitten Sammy high up the pole in front of his house. He didn't know how long the cat had been there.

He phoned Oak Bay police. They said they had no ladders. He phoned Oak Bay fire department. They had ladders but said they were not covered by compensation for such jobs.

He phoned the SPCA. They said they would be glad to oblige if the cat was up a tree, but when it came to telephone poles, no sir!

He phoned the B.C. Telephone Company. They didn't know whether they could get a man out or not. He phoned the B.C. Electric. They sent a man out right away and rescued Sammy. Time: 10 a.m.

FEATHERED FEAST: Resident of a Johnson Street hotel told photographer Jim Ryan there's no need for anyone ever to go hungry in Victoria.

He claimed that since he lost his last job more than a year ago he's been spending 25 cents a week on corn to lure pigeons onto his window sill. A swift flick of the wrist and another pigeon is ready for the pot.

Unreasonable Facsimile

SIGN OF GRANDEUR: Workmen on a road repair job on Rowe Street built temporary wooden traffic bridges so that cars could still use the road, promptly erected a sign labelling one: "Point Ellice Bridge."

SPOT REMOVER: Latest issue of the B.C. Gazette contains an application to change the name of a family which apparently immigrated here from Europe.

The spelling remains the same but the unlaughable, as everyone knows, is the two little dots over a vowel—has been removed.

Cost to the family: $30; or $10 per dot.

Signing Up for Signs

SIGN OFF: Opponents of the proposals to restrict the size and placing of signs in the downtown area hope to have the signatures soon of 350 Victoria businessmen who oppose any such move.

This, they say, will adequately answer the "malicious propaganda" by supporters of the bylaw to the effect that nearly all city businessmen want the restrictions.

TALE OF A GOAT: There's quite a big difference in dollars and cents between farm-land taxes and improved land taxes.

That's why residents of Port Washington on Pender Island asked Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston the other night why a modern house on a few acres of land pasturing one goat was taxed as farm land while a similar house on a few acres of land without a goat was classed as improved land.

Mr. Williston allowed as how he was just as puzzled as everyone else but promised he would make a point of finding out what gives.

Hobby Club Boys' Plan

Victoria boys will be given a chance to learn any hobby they choose as members of a new club formed by Victoria Noon Optimists.

Registrations will be accepted at club headquarters at 1248 Fort Street from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Dealer Revives Case

Detectives Cleared In Search Charge

Second-hand dealer W. A. Scott last night revived the Kibsgaard search warrant case on the heels of a Victoria police commission announcement that two detectives involved had been cleared of the complaint.

The commission found that a search warrant was "neither necessary nor desirable" when Dets. Angus Munro and Deans Blackstock entered the room of Jens P. Kibsgaard to remove a power saw for a check on its ownership, because they did not invade the man's privacy without his "implied permission."

GET PERMISSION
"The commission has no fault to find with the officers concerned," the decision concluded, with a recommendation that in future all officers obtain specific permission before entering any premises without a search warrant.

Reviving the issue, Mr. Scott said that, as a second-hand dealer, he receives regularly a police list of stolen articles. "The lists," he said, "show no case on the heels of a Victoria police commission announcement that two detectives involved had been cleared of the complaint."

DELINQUENT?
"If they (police) had such a report, they were delinquent in not putting it on the lists so that second-hand dealers could be on the lookout."

WRITE LETTER
Mayor Percy Scurrell, a member of the police commission, later said, "If he (Mr. Scott) has a complaint, he can write a letter to the police commission and we will investigate."

"Our action (of clearing the detectives) was based on evidence presented at the hearing and if he has any more evidence, let him bring it on."

Clinging Winkies a Hit

Latest craze among the younger set—clinging winkle dolls, which have proved a big hit in Japan—arrived in Victoria recently much to the delight of entranced youngsters like Yvonne Vanderbyl, 2, 2311 McBride. (Colonist photo.)

$13.83 Per Employee

Donations Reach New High From Chest Pilot Drive

Donations to the 1960 Community Chest appeal have hit a new high with an average donation of $13.83 from the employees of 18 city firms.

The firms were among 20 chosen as representative of the community and used in a pilot campaign. Figures from the other two firms are not yet available.

The 18 firms which have completed their collections have almost 1,000 employees between them.

At least 15 of the 18 firms will be given honor awards, signifying that 80 per cent of their employees donated at least one day's pay to the Chest appeal.

Some of the companies have doubled their donations. Most of them have payroll deduction schemes in operation.

"Where the employee has the opportunity to budget through these schemes he seems happy to give," a spokesman for the Chest said last night.

Almost $5,500 was donated to the appeal yesterday, bringing the total collected to date to $62,020.

A team of YMCA gymnasts with a mobile trampoline mat will visit Greater Victoria parking lots this afternoon to publicize the campaign.

They will leave the YMCA at 2 p.m., travel along Fort Government, Yates and Douglas to the Menzies shopping centre, then visit the Fairfield-Safeway, Foul Bay Safeway, Shelbourne Super-Valu, Royal Oak shopping centre, Foodliner at Cook and Quadra, and finally the Quadra-Hillside shopping area.

Liberals in Gear For 'Byelection'

B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault, anticipating an early election in Esquimalt-Saanich riding, will make three speeches in Victoria Tuesday.

Mr. Perrault will address the Young Liberal group at Victoria University at 12.30 p.m. and later in the afternoon he will speak to a political science class.

SAANICH GROUP
At 8 p.m. he will speak at the annual general meeting of the Saanich Liberal group at Victoria Liberal headquarters, 1322-A Government Street.

Another leading Liberal, former immigration minister Jack Pickersgill, is slated to visit Victoria Oct. 25.

NEXT SCENE
Mr. Perrault said yesterday Esquimalt-Saanich may be the next election scene. He based the conclusion on repeated speculation that Defence Minister George Pearkes, who represents Esquimalt-Saanich, will retire to become B.C. lieutenant-governor.

Woman Sent To Hospital After Crash
A woman who is expecting a child in December suffered shock, but was reported in satisfactory condition last night after a two-car crash at a city intersection.

Mrs. Jessie Grant, 40, of 1818 Adanac, was riding in the front passenger seat when that side of the car was crushed in the collision. Other driver was Florence B. Knowlton, 2976 Leigh Road.

Double Income

Introducing the application for wage increases, Mr. Sewell told the board: "A professional person should, within a reasonable length of time, be able to double his annual income."

In general we have tried to work towards doubling the starting income over quite a long period.

"The general wage pattern seems to be going up," he said.

"And unemployment is getting worse," Mrs. E. M. Maun-

Wages Rising

"Wages are still rising," teachers' committee chairman V. N. R. Sewell countered.

"But not to the percentage that you have asked for each year," Mr. Leeming replied.

He pointed out that if the school board granted the increase it would have 11 teachers on staff—principals—who would be paid more than $12,000 a year each.

NINE AT $11,000
Figures released by the school board following the meeting show that 144 teachers employed at present by the board are earning a minimum of $8,220 a year. Some of them are paid increments on top of that amount—nine of them are paid about $11,000 each.

DOUBLE INCOME
Introducing the application for wage increases, Mr. Sewell told the board: "A professional person should, within a reasonable length of time, be able to double his annual income."

In general we have tried to work towards doubling the starting income over quite a long period.

"The general wage pattern seems to be going up," he said.

terday, the Colwood Park Association bought the grounds from the city, intending to redevelop the racetrack and buildings and to lease the exhibition facilities to the agricultural association.

But, they said, Oak Bay refused to issue permits for this use of the land, and the property was sold to the municipality and subdivided for homes.

W. C. Gelling, chairman of the school board, told teachers' representatives flatly that he feels the 1960 salary schedule is adequate for 1961.

NO JUSTIFICATION
"There is no justification for an increase at the present time," he said.

Other members of the school board appeared equally opposed to the proposed increases.

"Teachers have received increases over the past 14 years ... and for teachers to come back and ask for an increase like this, it is really appalling," school-board committee chairman Kenneth Leeming said.

VERY PLEASED
"If you know how the taxpayers can find the money for you I would be very pleased to consider it," he offered.

"The point is that there is a certain price for any commodity you buy," Mrs. Hazel Hodson, a teachers' representative, said.

"If you want a certain quality overcoat you pay the price for it. You pay what you have to pay."

BEST COMMODITY
"We have given you the best commodity you can buy anywhere and there is a certain price for it." She referred to the high percentage of teachers in this area who hold union degrees.

"If a man makes a suit of clothes or an overcoat—no matter what its quality—if he charges more than it is worth he soon goes out of business," Mr. Gelling commented.

"You have a complete monopoly of supply, so we need some other yardstick than the law of supply and demand," he said.

"It seems to me we have reached a point where the only argument for higher wages for teachers is teachers."

"How many years do you think it is going to take you to get to your goal?" Mr. Leeming asked. "You have been asking for increases for a long time."

"We have to face up to the situation that higher salaries in one district only lead to higher salaries in another," Mr. Gelling added.

A further meeting between the two groups has been arranged for 8 p.m. Oct. 19 in the school board offices.

Kremlin Coasts When Khrushchev Away

MOSCOW (AP) — Who's minding the Soviet store while the head man carries on at the United Nations? Nobody stands up in Premier Khrushchev's absence.

But the government's routine business goes on as usual. It is conducted quietly by a bureaucracy built up in Moscow and the provinces through 42 years of Communism. Khrushchev will have been away a month Sunday on his latest of his more than a score of trips abroad as master salesman for Communism and a hard bargainer of the Soviet line on world issues. With him are several high officials such as Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, so no important decisions are being taken here. The storm of Moscow diplomatic notes, which blew about all summer while Khrushchev was in town, has dwindled to a relatively minor breeze. The hard fact is that when the premier is not here the machinery of government seems to do little more than coast. Anastas Mikoyan, the senior first deputy premier, is seemingly away from Moscow. The other deputy, Alexei Kosygin, is on hand. But such is the mechanism of the Soviet system that most decisions of even a relatively routine nature would be taken on a committee basis under a first deputy's chairmanship. Familiar now with how things slack off, many diplomats regularly schedule their vacations to coincide with Khrushchev's trips. His first trip abroad, in September, 1954, was to Red China. In the interval Khrushchev has made 10 trips outside the Soviet Union and as many or more within the Communist bloc. He got his first view of the capitalist world when he visited Switzerland for the 1955 Geneva summit meeting. In addition to his two trips to New York, he has visited Britain, France, Austria, Finland and south Asian nations ranging from Afghanistan to Indonesia. Khrushchev is scheduled to visit North Korea later this month, with indications he may drop in on Communist North Viet Nam and China.

Truck Shredded

Wreck Burns Big Oil Train

EDMONTON (CP) — A CPR tank train with more than 1,000,000 gallons of fuel oil collided with a heavy truck in southeast Edmonton Friday, ripping the truck to shreds and setting fire to the train as the locomotive and 13 cars left the track.

Truck driver Edward Singer of Edmonton escaped injury. Five members of the train crew fled when the engine and caboose were sprayed with gasoline and caught fire.

The trainmen were bruised and shaken up, but did not require hospital treatment. Five of the railway tank cars, each carrying 40,000 gallons of fuel from the east Edmonton refinery area, rolled into the ditch along the track. A small creek running along the track carried the highly flammable fuel along the railway, worsening the hazard. The truck was destroyed. Railway officials said that the wreck probably would be cleared by Sunday night.

WHISTLE, BELL. Engineer of the diesel locomotive, C. Thew, said the train's whistle and bell were sounded continuously and the headlight was on. "When I saw it didn't appear he (the truck) was going to stop, I threw her into emergency."

The impact sliced the truck in half. The locomotive was derailed and travelled for nearly 700 feet before stopping. When the train stopped, the five tankers toppled into the ditch.

BLAST THREAT. Wreck and track crews were hampered by the threat of an explosion. "If we set off a spark, there'll be an explosion which will send us all sky high," said one of the men.

Ruling

Delayed

REGINA (CP) — Chief Justice Emmett Hall reserved decision Friday on the validity of two search warrants obtained by the Saskatchewan Securities Commission to search the home and office of Regina lawyer Dr. M. C. Shumatcher.

Dr. Shumatcher applied to have the warrants quashed. Two previous warrants, used by RCMP and SSC investigators Tuesday to conduct a search of the law firm in which Dr. Shumatcher is senior partner, were quashed Thursday.

NOT BEFORE TUESDAY. The chief justice indicated he would not hand down a decision before Tuesday.

Both the office and adjoining home of Dr. Shumatcher are under guard pending the outcome of the hearing. He has access to both but is under orders not to remove anything and agreed to live at a hotel until the matter is settled.

On Thursday, when his classmates learned his sight was all right, they promptly pooled finances and rented a television set so he could watch the series.

Saanich firemen last night quelled a garage fire at the home of John Carson, 3110 Frechette. Flames spread from an incinerator to a corner of the garage, scorching paint and breaking window panes, and causing damage estimated at $25.

Laszlo Dioso, 38, was found dead yesterday afternoon in the basement of a home at 507 Harbinger. The coroner was notified by police.

Children's Safety Urged

Victoria Jaycees are planning a campaign on child safety to begin in the spring.

Blair Little, director of the junior chamber of education and youth development committee, said plans include a bicycle safety check, a bicycle rodeo similar to the car rodeo test held last year by the Jaycees, and spot surveys of dangerous road areas for child pedestrians and cyclists.

George Mooney of Montreal, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, will meet Mayor Percy Scurrell and the Reeves of Greater Victoria at luncheon today in the Union Club. He is going to a municipal conference in San Diego.

Lawyer, Barber Guilty

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer and an elderly Chinese barber were found guilty Friday of helping three Chinese from Hong Kong enter Canada with faked passports. An assize court jury deliberated almost 20 hours before finding lawyer Edward Gordon, 54, guilty on seven of the nine counts against him, and 72-year-old Sun Tong on two of six counts. They will be held in jail until next Thursday, when Justice H. A. Maclean will pass sentence.

Judicial Recount Set For Comox Thursday

NANAIMO — A judicial recount of the provincial election vote in Comox riding will be held in Courtenay Thursday.

Judge L. A. Hanna has approved an application for a recount filed by lawyer Gordon Dowling of Vancouver on behalf of CCF candidate Fred Wood, who trailed Social Credit winner Dan Campbell by 39 votes in the final count. Judge Hanna will conduct the recount.

Federal-Provincial Conference

New Round of Constitution Talks Set As Negotiators Differ on Big Points

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal and provincial governments agreed Friday that it should be possible to find a way of amending the constitution in Canada but stopped short of commitments on a formula pending further study and negotiation.

A communiqué reported that the two-day conference of provincial attorneys-general and Justice Minister Fulton failed to find answers to the two main questions considered. Machinery was set up to prepare for another round of talks, tentatively set for Nov. 3-4.

The principal questions examined were a formula to transfer to Canada the British Parliament's power to amend the constitution; and a formula whereby amendments should be made in Canada. "While no agreement was reached with respect to a specific formula under either heading, it was generally agreed that, after further study and comparison of different views, such agreement should be possible," the communiqué said.

Party for Phyllis Pluym

Confetti, bells and pink and white decorations formed the pretty setting at the home of Miss Arlene Hammer, 1461 Taunton Road recently at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Phyllis Pluym, October bride-elect. Co-hostess was Miss Sandy Dodd. Carnation corsages were presented to the guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. A. Pluym, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. G. Marchmont. A decorated umbrella held the many gifts from guests. Mrs. E. Hammer, Mrs. M. Brodersen, Mrs. A. Dodd, Mrs. G. Popham, Mrs. A. Hamill, Mrs. H. Parfitt, Mrs. K. Watson, Misses Joanne Mummery, Priscilla John, Marlene Parfitt, Linda Parfitt, Ruth Hamill, Susan Watson, Roslyn Hammer and Janette Hammer.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: My mother makes me sick.

The other day a dreamy guy came by in his convertible to take me swimming. He tooted the horn and I was not quite ready so he kept at it. My mother looked out the window and when she saw him she became a maniac. She hollered, "You are NOT riding any place with that shameless kid. He's naked."

I told her we were going swimming and he was wearing swimming trunks. She said, "Unless he puts a top on you are not leaving this house."

I finally went out and told him he'd have to slip on a shirt or I couldn't go. He said he wasn't putting on a shirt for anybody, and drove off leaving me on the sidewalk. I haven't heard from this fellow since and I'm heart sick. I think my mother did me terrible dirt.

Dear Left: Mom was right. These characters who go riding around undressed from the waist up look like left-overs from an old Tarzan film. Since you told the boy that your mother wouldn't let you ride with him unless he put on a shirt, he should have had enough respect for both your mother—and for you—to comply.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are very friendly with a couple. The man works with my husband but he has a higher position.

I don't enjoy their company much because the man usually gets plastered and talks through his hat. The woman, whom I'll call Kitty, is a good-looking gal with a nice figure. When she wears something with stripes my husband says, "You look just like a cute little sailor boy." If I wear anything with stripes he says, "Where did you get that horror? You look like a zebra."

The other evening Kitty had two drinks and said she didn't want any more. My husband mixed her a drink anyway, put it in her hand and tried to force the glass to her lips. This burned me up. I told him it was unbecoming. He says I'm being petty. What do you think?—PIQUED

Dear Piqued: It was unbecoming to try to get Kitty to

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By EDITH HENRY

Billie lasted three days at school before coming home with a bruised cheek and a shirt that had literally been through the wars.

"I had to hit a boy this morning, Mummy," was his complaint announcement. "He broke down the house I was making."

What is to be done when children fight at school?

The truth is you can't discuss fighting in general because there are so many different kinds of fights.

In the old days it was customary to come out of school every two or three days to see a crowd of boys gathered up the road.

In a cleared space in the centre of the crowd you would find the two school champions fighting again. The onlookers would stand silent with fast beating hearts.

Before too much damage was done, the fight was over.

Neither the cause of the battle nor its result seemed to have much importance. It was simply a healthy sports event between two champions.

Today, this type of fighting has apparently given way to hockey, bowling or volley ball leagues.

Schools do not approve of fighting and are therefore a close ally of parents.

Should it occur, one headmaster described his procedure, which might be applicable on the home front too. The contestants are allowed to cool down.

They are summoned for an interview.

The first question asked is, "What did you prove?" This usually draws the sheepish answer, "Nothing."

A discussion follows on how the difficulty might have been efficiently settled.

Facts are quoted on disastrous physical injuries suffered in fights. The contestants are asked if their difference was worth this risk.

Finally it is pointed out, "It seems that you have wasted a lot of good energy which we can use around here. Go to the caretaker and ask for his next cleaning-up job."

Edna Taylor Bride Of Gerald Parenteau

Chaplain H. Todd officiated at a double-ring ceremony in St. Andrew's Chapel, HMCS Naden, recently when Miss Edna Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Taylor, 948 Aral Road, became the bride of Gerald Parenteau, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Parenteau, Drummondville, Quebec.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina-length bridal gown of white lace with a scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her chapel length veil of illusion net. Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses.

Miss Peggy McNeilly of Edmonton, Alta., was maid of honor, and wore a dress of yellow brocade with matching headband and tiny veil. Her bouquet was of green carnations.

The best man was Mr. Claude Parenteau and usher was Mr. Joe Neirnak.

Mr. C. Tester of Toronto, Ont., proposed the toast at the reception held in the Olde England Inn, where a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table.

For her going-away outfit, the bride chose an olive green dress with brown accessories, a yellow carnation corsage and a brown muskrat jacket.

Following a honeymoon on the mainland, Mr. and Mrs.

Parenteau will live at 99 Gorge Road West.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. M. McGeachy and Mrs. M. Blake, both of Vancouver.

TV TALK

The CBC has come up with a promising program idea in Festival '61, a weekly show of varying length, which makes its first appearance over Channels 2 and 6 at 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Basically, the program will present high quality drama, opera and music and the length of each week's show will depend entirely on the time the particular subject requires for adequate treatment.

Opening production will be the Gilbert and Sullivan favorite, HMS Pinafore, with a cast from the Stratford Festival.

Pinafore was presented at this year's Stratford Festival and the original sets and costumes were used when the CBC taped the show in its own studios.

Art Experts Coming For Gallery Program

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Television has revived the perfect wife, the attractive Mrs. with the flair for attractive clothes, kitchen skill, sophisticated repartee, and madly-in-love wedding bliss. One of the best of these television wives is Marjorie Lord who joined the Danny Thomas TV household three years ago.

She was playing on the Los Angeles stage in "Anniversary

Experts in various fields of art will participate in the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria's lecture program during the next six months.

Russell Harper, recently appointed curator of Canadian Art at the national gallery in Ottawa will speak on "David Milne, a Canadian Painter," Oct. 14.

Other speakers: William Miliken, director emeritus of the Cleveland Museum of Art, "Siena, City of the Virgin," Dec. 5; Charles Sterling, curator of the Louvre in Paris, "Still Life from Antiquity to Cezanne," Jan. 20, and Robert Rowe, director of Temple Newsam House, Leeds, England, "The early British watercolor school," March 7.

B.C. Leader

Avoid Politics Servants Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the B.C. Government Employees' Association told delegates to its annual convention yesterday that the executive "shall continue to strive to keep this association free from any partisan political action."

President Dave Block of Nanaimo made the statement in his annual address.

VITAL CONCERN
"Many of our members are vitally concerned about political activity and the effect of our affiliation with labor in the light of political activities," he said.

Mr. Block was referring to the decision of the B.C. Federation of Labor, with which the BCGEA is affiliated, to support an alliance with the CCF in a new political party.

WILL DECIDE
The 78 delegates to the convention will decide whether they can stay politically neutral within the federation.

The constitution of the association says it must "function solely as a non-political, non-partisan and non-sectarian association" and many delegates feel continued affiliation with the federation compromises their position.

FOUR COURSES

Four courses suggested to the delegates, who represent nearly 11,000 provincial civil servants throughout the province, are:

1. A referendum vote of the members to decide whether to unite—held over by popular demand—

Berserk Rifleman Shoots Neighbor In Vancouver Volley

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said a crazed gunman fired a volley of shots down downtown Granville Street early yesterday, killing one man and narrowly missing another before going to a hotel room and killing himself.

They said John Conroy, about 35, took deliberate aim with a .303-calibre rifle equipped with telescopic sights at a group of men 200 yards away and killed Arthur (Jorgie) Jorgenson, about 25.

Then he dropped the rifle and rushed to a hotel room where he killed himself with a .22-calibre rifle.

Police said they have not determined whether Conroy was shooting at anybody or had an intended victim. But they said that he and Jorgenson lived in the same hotel.

Jorgenson was shot through the throat by a slug that ripped through his jugular vein.

Police said the killer only fired three shots but some witnesses said up to six were fired.

Profit-Wage Probe Asked

VANCOUVER (CP)—John V. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, was told by a labor leader Friday to put up or shut up.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, made the remark in a speech to the B.C. Government Employees' Association convention.

CALLED FOR HALT
"Mr. Clyne told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Calgary Tuesday the many rounds of wage increases won by unions are causing an unemployment crisis. He called for a halt to wage increases. Mr. O'Neal said labor has been asking for years for an investigation into prices, profits and wages by an unbiased authority."

"The time has come when Clyne and his colleagues should accept or shut up," he said.

The federation secretary also told the convention that not one cent of per capita dues from affiliated unions was used by the federation to support the CCF in the provincial election.

VOLUNTARY GIFTS
The money came from voluntary contributions from affiliated unions and other sources, he said.

A resolution is before the convention to take a vote of association members on whether to quit the federation because of its support for the CCF. The association's constitution says it must be non-partisan and non-political.

Japan to Pay For U.K. Loss

LONDON (UPI)—The British foreign office has announced that Japan has agreed to settle an undisclosed amount of money on certain claims for losses suffered by Britons in China between 1937 and 1941.

The settlement does not include the years during the Second World War. Unofficial but authoritative sources said the settlement agreement was for $1,400,000.

Everybody's Happy

Veteran bandleader Ted Lewis and wife Adah answered a happy "yes" when the crowd called out his trademark, "Is everybody happy?" at party last night to mark the couple's 45th wedding anniversary and Lewis' 50th year in show business. Topping Lewis' head is another trademark—old, battered hat that has accompanied him through entire career. — (AP Photo-fax.)

Storms

World Radio Stilled

LONDON (UPI)—Magnetic storms in the past 48 hours have seriously affected radio communications throughout the world, the British post office reported yesterday.

A spokesman said the bad conditions had not been forecast, hence users of radio communications had no advance warning.

From London, the only clear channels were those to Athens and Sydney, Australia. The rest of the world was under an inter-continental radio blackout, with the routes to North America the most severely hit.

Tokyo reported that radio communications with the United States and Europe were disrupted. Contact was erratic with Manila but temporarily re-established.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The long Thanksgiving weekend has become traditionally the time to get started on the cleanup operations in the garden. Although many of our plants are still in full growth, some of the vegetables and perennial flowers have had their day and are beginning to wear a dejected look and, the sooner this over-the-hill top-growth is cleared away, the less chance there is for fungus infections and pests to spread.

Cut the old flower stems and leaves as soon as they lose their green color, but don't cut them too closely—four or five inches from the ground is about right. This is because the new shoots next spring will often sprout from the base of the old stems rather than directly from the roots.

I make two exceptions to this rule. The tall Michaelmas daisies are not cut at all, for I like to let mine stand through the winter for the sake of their dried stems, which make excellent garden stakes next year. The peonies I cut all the way back—in fact, I scrape away a little soil so I can take off the spent foliage perhaps half an inch below the soil surface. This is because we have quite a bit of peony botrytis disease around and the spores of this infection spend the winter at or near soil level on the old stems, ready to infect the emerging shoots next spring.

A few of our garden plants such as the bearded iris and the red hot poker retain their foliage through the winter and should be left untouched. At one time, the red hot pokers were thought to be tender plants, susceptible to frost, but it is known now that most varieties can take almost any amount of dry cold. Losses through winter injury are caused by rain, which tends to run into the centre of the crown.

In frosty weather, this water freezes and, in expanding, splits open the delicate plant tissues. The trick in wintering these plants successfully lies in drawing the leaves up over the crown and tying them, thereby shedding the rain and keeping the centre growth from filling up with water.

A garden bonfire is an essential part of any clean-up job and all rubbish, twigs and branches unfit for the compost heap are best burnt. And while you have the fire going, it wouldn't be a bad idea to sterilize some soil for use indoors or under glass. Soil will be needed for potting up bulbs, for repotting houseplants, for taking and rooting slips and for starting seeds in warmth early next spring, and this is a good opportunity to render some soil free from pests and disease spores.

My lazy gardener's method of sterilizing soil is simplicity itself. In addition to a bonfire, you need an old coal shovel and a clean drum with a lid or some similar covered container for the treated soil.

Take up a couple of quarts of good topsoil in the coal shovel and toast it over the bonfire until it is steaming freely, then dump it in the clean drum and put on the lid to hold in the heat while you toast another batch. Continue in this way until your drum is filled with hot, steaming soil.

This is a highly unscientific method and, by all the rules in the book, it shouldn't work—but it does. I think the secret lies in the covered container, which confines the steam to permeate the whole mass of soil. I have never had seedlings suffer from damping-off in soil so treated.

Law Built a Crime Cartel

The capture of the Guatemalan Ambassador to Belgium and The Netherlands with 116 pounds of heroin worth $4,000,000 (or $20,000,000 depending on which newspaper you read) was chiefly shocking for a reason that generally escaped notice—the fact that 116 pounds of heroin is worth $4,000,000 (or $20,000,000). All the news stories I read neglected to point out one thing: that the United States is the only country in the world where that amount of heroin would bring that amount of money or, in fact, any sizable amount at all.

In Britain, where narcotics is treated—as it ought to be treated here—as a medical problem, heroin is legal and British addicts (for some reason) don't like it and don't use it. We have created a vast market for heroin here by making it illegal. We have built a huge and prosperous crime cartel out of the illegality of narcotics that is doing terrible social damage.

This is in the great American tradition. When people harbor appetites we disapprove of, we pass a law against them. We outlawed liquor and we got Capone. We got gangsterism. We are the only country in the world where gangsterism is big business. In fact, crime is the biggest business in the United States. You can credit the Volstead Act with all of it. Prohibition created Capone, Luciano, Frank Costello, and all the rest of them. Far worse, we lost our respect for law and we never got it back.

By the money that Capone made out of beer alone, he corrupted lawyers, legislators, newspapermen, and to some degree, all of us. Money corrupts. The shocking thing to me is not that there are dope addicts but that they are considered criminals. If you were manufacturing heroin, where would you send it? Here, of course. This is where the money is.

Dope addiction is a very large and very complex problem. But the men who are the biggest experts in it have no experience with or patience for the very large social problem that is created by the huge amounts of money in illegal narcotics.

In Britain, for instance, where there is no criminal addiction, a medical addict can get what in this country would amount to a fix for 14 cents. Here it's $30. An addict on CBS's The Twentieth Century explained that he and his partner stole to satisfy his craving. Because they got only about one-third the value of what they stole, they were forced to steal about $70,000 worth of goods a year or in the 10 years of his addiction almost $750,000 worth of goods.

In addition, there is the vast vested interest among gangsters in pushing dope. Another addict on the CBS show said that he was tired of earning $40 or $50 a week when he saw dope pushers riding around in Cadillacs. In the higher echelons, the money from narcotics is corrupting cops, legislators, and children. And it always will—so long as 116 pounds of heroin is worth $4,000,000 (or $20,000,000). That's a lot of money.

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

Vivien Loosening Grip

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Wedding bells are closer for Sir Laurence Olivier and 28-year-old "Taste of Honey" star Joan Plowright. Vivien Leigh has agreed, in principle, to the terms of settlement with Sir Larry. By the way, I saw his movie, "The Entertainer," which was rapped in his native England. It's worth seeing, if only for Olivier's fantastic performance. Ditto for his great performance in "Spartacus."

Dore Schary and the Warners have agreed there will be a sequel to "Sunrise in My Pocket," again starring Ralph Bellamy and Greer Garson.

Rex Harrison is insisting in Europe that he is not going to marry again in the near future. This would be a blow to Tammy Grimes, but for the fact that rarely a day goes by without a telephone call from Rexy.

Observed during Tammy's "Unsinkable Molly Brown" barefoot dance cavortings: choreographer Peter Gennaro, following her with a pair of tweezers to remove the splinters from the soles of her feet!

June Havoc's take from "Gypsy," which was authored by sister Gypsy Rose Lee, is in the neighborhood of $85,000. For allowing herself to be portrayed as a brat, June also shares in the movie fee, which was a mere $700,000 plus 10 per cent of the gross. Sometimes you can get rich by not writing a book!

With most of the accents American in the Francoise Sagan story, "Time on Her Hands" (nee "Almei-vous Brahms"), the only Frenchman in the French story—Yves Montand, is being given lessons to remove his French accent!

And, while I think of it, it's a great pity that Billy Wilder is not making a musical of the musical Broadway success, "Irma La Douce" when he makes the movie, because there is already a set of French lyrics for the project which started life as a musical on the French stage.

Cary Grant, in New York for promotion discussions with Universal-International on his "Grass Is Greener" movie, is on the lookout for a gorgeous Chinese girl (she must be tall) for his next film, "One Arabian Night"—the title of this will probably be changed. Cary has been in London "loping" some dialogue for "Grass." His flying-into-New York companions were director Stanley Donen and wife, the former Lady Adele Beatty.

Producer Sam Spiegel has about given up on getting Marlon Brando for the title role in his "Lawrence of Arabia."

Going to waist?

He has been testing Albert Finney, who had an infinitesimal role in the movie version of "The Entertainer." I believe producers are beginning to realize that the play's the thing, not the fame of a handful of actors.

Rock Hudson, who is not famous for his dancing, is getting lessons in the cha-cha-cha from Gina Lollobrigida, who has a honey of a hip. And, she says of her "come September" co-star, "Thees Rock Hudson, he es not hot bod." Before you jump to the wrong conclusion, dance lessons are for their movie now location-ing in Portofino, Italy.

Raiders Kill 35 In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Village officials in northeast Katanga province Friday reported at least 35 persons were killed in recent days by raiding Baluba tribesmen loyal to ousted Congolese Premier Lumumba.

The situation was termed "very serious" by authorities here, who said that at least three Europeans were among those taken prisoner by the Balubas.

UN forces in the area, not involved in the raids, found nine bodies of Africans following a raid on the village of Niamba, 300 miles north of Elizabethville.

They said 30 Niambans were kidnapped after communications were destroyed. Six raiders were reported killed in another attack on Bukuma airport.

Blast, Fire Ruin Largest Mill

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—An explosion and fire Friday night wrecked the largest flour mill in the Commonwealth.

One person was missing, six were in hospital and first estimates placed damage as high as $1,500,000.

Four hours after the blast at the Maple Leaf Milling Co., the fire was reported "still out of control" and creeping toward a 3,000,000-bushel national harbors board grain elevator 70 feet away. The adjoining Ontario Bag Co. also was reported destroyed. George Crowther, 40, building superintendent, said: "The top blew off her. It started on about the third floor and went on through. 'I don't know what could have happened. I don't know whether it was combustion or not.'"

Abandon Quemoy Kennedy's Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic candidate John Kennedy says he would withdraw defenses from offshore Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu and draw the defense line at Formosa. Vice President Nixon says he would continue to defend the islands.

The issue of the Quemoy and Matsu islands, plus handling of the U-2 spy plane incident, were among the big points of difference in the second radio-television debate between the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates.

Trading charges of "distortion" and "defeatism," Nixon and Kennedy dropped the relatively soft approach of their first face-to-face engagement as they tangled over such issues as civil rights, U.S. policy toward Cuba and the state of U.S. prestige.

There was no complete report on damage and casualties. Most of the persons unaccounted for were fishermen whose boats sank in turbulent seas. At least eight small boats and one 240-ton ship capsized in southern Philippine waters before they could reach shelter.

First reports from officials in the coconut centre of Bicol placed damage to crops, public works projects and private property at $300,000. The figure was expected to rise.

HARVEST HEIGHT
Damage to crops could be particularly heavy because the storm came at the height of the rice harvest.

Fringe rains also caused floods in lower sections in Manila and in northern Tarlac province, where rising rivers were reported threatening to inundate several towns.

The major fireworks came when Kennedy was asked his position on defence of the offshore islands, now held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces. They have been a long-time target of the communists on the mainland.

Kennedy replied that he would draw a defence line around the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, 150 miles away, and appeal to Chiang to give up Quemoy and Matsu. He said this would leave a line that could be defended—Formosa—and would have the support of other nations.

CHAIN REACTION
Nixon disagreed sharply, accusing Kennedy of "woolly thinking." He said he hoped the Democrat would change his mind because giving up any "free territory" would start a chain reaction of Communist threats and demands.

On the U-2 incident, Kennedy stood by his previous statement that he would have expressed regret to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev over the spy's plane flight if this would have salvaged the summit. And he charged that his statement had been "distorted" by Nixon and others.

Kennedy said his course would have been preferable to the "lie" the administration told in first denying the flight. He said this country had voiced regrets before in similar circumstances.

Nixon retorted that the president of the United States could never express regret when he is in the right and doing something to protect the country. He said he would never express regrets to Khrushchev for any national security program.

Algerian rebel "premier" Ferhat Abbas now is in Moscow seeking support for his forces after receiving a promise in Peking of Chinese Communist aid.

Bourguiba said his "idea" for uniting with the Algerian insurgents is not yet a firm project. The aim, he said, is to build a democratic North Africa as soon as the Algerian people are free.

Blow Directed at de Gaulle

Algeria Rebel Regime Recognized by Nikita

Surprise Move Threatens Franco-Russian Relations

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—In a challenge to French President de Gaulle, Soviet Premier Khrushchev Friday recognized the Algerian rebel leadership as in fact a government.

The French government has threatened to break relations with the Soviet Union if it recognized the North African rebels fighting for independence from France. De Gaulle is promoting a plan he says will give Algeria self-determination but hopes to keep it allied with France.

The immediate reaction in Paris was that Khrushchev's statement before a United Nations Correspondents Association luncheon came as a surprise.

De Gaulle himself was touring the French provinces, bitterly speaking out against the UN assembly in apparent anticipation of action it may take on the Algerian rebels' case for independence.

Hasten Victory

Tunisia To Push Rebels?

TUNIS (Reuters)—President Habib Bourguiba said Friday Tunisia might unite with the Algerian insurgents to hasten the "liberation" of Algeria and keep it out of the cold war.

He told the National Assembly here that Russian or Chinese armies may soon be on the way to the insurgents.

They have been fighting for independence from France for the last six years. "When Russia and China enter the lists—and we can perhaps no longer prevent them—we will be obliged to carry out this fusion to prevent Africa tending to become a satellite of East or West," Bourguiba said.

China Issue Fireworks Delayed by UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The UN General Assembly yesterday suddenly called off its night session as the East and West approached a critical clash on the issue of Red China's membership.

Fireworks on the China issue thus were put off until after Soviet Premier Khrushchev makes another assembly address today.

Republic Pledged In Eight Months

JOHANNESBURG — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, in a radio broadcast Friday night, promised South Africans a republic within eight months. (See also Page 5.)

Verwoerd declared: "Within eight months, the ideal of generations and the choice of the people for a republic will be fulfilled." He said the decision was "clearly final." He hinted that Parliament might set May 31—Union Day—as a suitable date for the birth of the republic.

Final returns today in South Africa's referendum gave 849,958 votes to supporters of republic status and 775,978 to those opposed.

K's Pledge:

Spring Summit Will Put Off Berlin Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev pledged yesterday Russia will take no action to force a showdown on Germany and West Berlin if the West agrees to a new summit conference next spring.

Khrushchev told the United Nations Correspondents' Association British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had assured him there would be a summit meeting in the spring. If there is not, he said, the Soviet Union will sign a peace treaty with East Germany and "that will be the end of the West Berlin question also."

NO PROMISE
But British foreign office spokesman John Russell denied yesterday that Macmillan promised Khrushchev there would be a summit conference next spring. He also refuted other assertions made by the Soviet leader.

Khrushchev said Russia insists upon the replacement of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld by a three-member presidium and warned that if its demand is not granted, it will rely on "our strength" outside the United Nations.

STRENGTH, NOT FORCE
His interpreter translated his remarks as a threat to "uphold our interests outside this organization by means of force." The Soviet press officer later said that phrase should have been translated "by relying on our strength."

The Soviet leader said Russia would not accept Hammarskjöld as secretary-general, even if 99 per cent of the UN members voted for him.

Answering questions for an hour and 42 minutes, Khrushchev told the newsmen: "Macmillan assured him in private talks that there would be a summit conference next year after the U.S. election. The summit would be convened to discuss a peace treaty with Germany and the conversion of West Berlin into a free city," he said.

● Russia would stand by its pledge not to force the German issue by signing a separate treaty with East Germany if there is agreement to hold a summit session.

● In return, Khrushchev proposed a special session of the general assembly, to be held next February and April, perhaps in Moscow or Leningrad, to discuss only the questions of disarmament.

● The current assembly session cannot solve questions because of the "hindrance" of the U.S. presidential election, which means that "the United States cannot actively participate in solving all the important questions" before it.

● Macmillan favored a delay of "five or 10" years on the disarmament question to permit world tension to cool, and then wanted to give the problem to a committee of experts "and let them move ahead as a small world move."

Russia, Khrushchev said, insisted on going ahead now with disarmament "under international control" to prevent the spread of nuclear arms and missiles and the entry of more countries into the armaments race.

(Russell said Macmillan did not reject Khrushchev's proposal for a special assembly session on disarmament, but at the same time "he did not accept it." He said it was not correct that Macmillan proposed a five or 10-year delay in disarmament plans. And he said Macmillan's plan for an expert committee to consider disarmament was a proposal to speed things up.)

Canada Picks Newfoundland For First Satellite Tracker

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's first station designed specifically to track satellites and record signals from outer space will be built near St. John's, Nfld.

Dr. R. S. Rettie of the radio and electrical engineering division of the National Research Council said this Friday the $250,000 station will be operating by mid-December. Dr. Rettie said the station "will be of particular importance in helping Canadian scientists learn more about the ionosphere, an electrically-charged layer 60 to 300 miles above the earth. This will enable scientists to develop better telecommunications systems.

The new satellite tracking station, being built 15 miles north of St. John's near Pouch Cove, will occupy a 25-acre site. Dr. Rettie said the station is being constructed under an international agreement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Washington. The space administration is paying the full cost of installation but annual operating and maintenance costs of about $150,000 will be borne by Canada.

The Newfoundland site was chosen because of its position in relation to satellite launching sites in the United States.

The station will play an important role in recording signals from Canada's "top side sounder" satellite, scheduled to be launched into space by a U.S. rocket from the Vandenberg, Calif., air base in 1962. The satellite, now being built by the Defence Research Board, will pick up and transmit to earth information about the upper levels of the ionosphere and radio signals emanating from outer space.

Did City Use It for Arena?

$65,000 Was Ours, Says Agriculture Group

By R. O. MARRION
Victoria city has been asked for $65,000 it apparently spent years ago.

The long-dormant B.C. Agricultural Association, now planning to build new exhibition facilities at Colwood, claims the $65,000 belongs to it, should have been held in trust for it, but was used by the city in financing the construction of the Memorial Arena.

"I think the city used the money in good faith for the arena, but in my mind there's no question about it belonging to the association," Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, president of the association, said yesterday.

Memories were being stretched and old files dusted

off at city hall yesterday to uncover all facts pertinent to the association's claim.

The association said in a letter to city council finance committee that when the horse-show building and the manufacturers' building at the old Willows fairground burned down during the Second World War, the city received $65,000 in insurance.

The provincial government and the city had each provided one-half of the money for the construction of the buildings, the association said; but the association was paying principal and interest on the city's loan, and the insurance money was supposed to be held in trust until needed by the association.

Instead, the association said, the money was used in financing construction of the arena after the war.

Some city officials said yesterday that they seemed to remember that this was the case, the association having "faded away" at the time, but City Comptroller Dennis Young said he had been unable so far to find records confirming it.

Old bylaws on file indicate the city owned the Willows fairgrounds. The city first provided $25,000 to establish fair facilities in 1891, and contributed another $25,000 a short time later. At this time, ownership was vested in a board of trustees.

But in 1894 the city voted to raise $25,000 to acquire the property, and in 1906 it raised another $30,000 for additional property and buildings.

After the Second World War, city officials recalled yesterday, the Colwood Park Association bought the grounds from the city, intending to develop the racetrack and buildings and to lease the exhibition facilities to the agricultural association.

But, they said, Oak Bay refused to issue permits for this use of the land, and the property was sold to the municipality and subdivided for homes.

Buck Passed While Kitten Clings to Pole

By PETER BRUTON

CATSUP TROUBLE: How do you get a cat down from the top of a telephone pole? Victor Bochko, 2349 Florence, spent quite a time finding out yesterday.

About 7 a.m. he heard a cry, looked up and saw his five-month-old kitten Sammy high up the pole in front of his house. He didn't know how long the cat had been there.

He phoned Oak Bay police. They said they had no ladders.

He phoned Oak Bay fire department. They had ladders but said they were not covered by compensation for such jobs.

He phoned the SPCA. They said they would be glad to oblige if the cat was up a tree, but when it came to telephone poles, no sir!

He phoned the B.C. Telephone Company. They didn't know whether they could get a man out or not.

He phoned the B.C. Electric. They sent a man out right away and rescued Sammy. Time: 10 a.m.

FEATHERED FEAST: Resident of a Johnson Street hotel told photographer Jim Ryan there's no need for anyone ever to go hungry in Victoria.

He claimed that since he lost his last job more than a year ago he's been spending 25 cents a week on corn to lure pigeons onto his window sill. A swift flick of the wrist and another pigeon is ready for the pot.

Unreasonable Facsimile

SIGN OF GRANDEUR: Workmen on a road repair job on Rowe Street built temporary wooden traffic bridges so that cars could still use the road, promptly erected a sign labelling one: "Point Ellice Bridge."

SPOT REMOVER: Latest issue of the B.C. Gazette contains an application to change the name of a family which apparently immigrated here from Europe.

The spelling remains the same but the umlaut—which, as everyone knows, is the two little dots over a vowel—has been removed.

Signing Up for Signs

SIGN OFF: Opponents of the proposals to restrict the size and placing of signs in the downtown area hope to have the signatures soon of 350 Victoria businessmen who oppose any such move.

This, they say, will adequately answer the "malicious propaganda" by supporters of the bylaw to the effect that nearly all city businessmen want the restrictions.

Parkville Whist Drive

PARKVILLE — A whist drive on Oct. 19 at the Legion Hall will be the first event of the fall season for the Ladies' Auxiliary to Mt. Arrowsmith Branch, No. 49, Canadian Legion. Mrs. G. V. Hanley was named general convener at a recent meeting.

Installed as a new member by the president, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart, was Mrs. Alice Combs of Combs.

Mrs. M. O'Neil and Mrs. H. F. Butler were appointed as delegates to the Upper Island District Council meeting at Alberni on Oct. 19.

Cafe Donates Day's 'Take' To Chinatown Relief Fund

NANAIMO—Another $1,000 has been added to the Chinese emergency relief fund through the generosity of a Chinese firm in the community.

The Diner's Rendezvous Cafe donated its entire day's take on Wednesday this week. Co-owner Henry Wong announced that $678 was the take less 25 per cent which went to wages for the kitchen staff, many of whom lived in Chinatown and lost everything in last Friday's fire.

Greater Victoria residents have donated a total of $500 to help the homeless residents.

The amount raises the total of money donated to help the fire victims to some $10,000, including $3,000 donated by the Peking Opera Company of

Len Chan, publicity director of a committee heading a rebuilding fund for Chinatown, says the 11 houses left standing after the Sept. 30 fire will probably be demolished to make way for a complete rebuilding program.

Coho Derby Closes Cowichan Events

DUNCAN—Several hundred boats are expected at Cowichan Bay over the weekend to take part in the last fishing derby of the year in the district.

Officials of the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club, sponsors of the coho derby, say that fishing is good with bucktail fly luring them in. Use of herring is forbidden.

Top prize will be $100 each

PARKSVILLE—Lack of adequate police protection in Parksville came under fire at the regular meeting of the village council following protests made by various groups about vandalism and wanton destruction of property particularly in the Community Park area.

Letters of protest will be sent to Attorney General Robert Bonner, the RCMP Commission and the Qualicum Beach detachment of the RCMP stating that in the opinion of the council the village of Parksville is not receiving proper police protection.

QUALICUM BEACH—Coroner Thomas Hadfield said yesterday that upon instructions from the attorney-general's department, an inquest into the death by drowning of Frederick Charles Bennett of Gerald Island will be held in the near future.

Body of the 74-year-old man has not yet been recovered. The drowning took place

Aug. 15, when his 12-foot boat overturned in choppy waters between Gerald Island and Vancouver Island. Five other occupants of the boat, all teenage girls from Moorecroft United Church Girl's summer camp, were saved.

ALBERNI—Four juveniles, transferred to adult court and charged with assault causing bodily harm, pleaded guilty and were given suspended sentences. Each was ordered to post a $500 bond.

They were Charles Watts, Harry Austin Sam, John Barry Dick, and John Barry Watts.

In addition each of the youths was ordered to pay $26 toward compensating their victim for medical expenses and time lost from work.

Four other youths appeared in juvenile court and were fined $10 under the Game Act for making false statements in their applications for hunting licences.

Kenneth Raymond Smith was fined $15 for jiggling fish.

NANAIMO—Hundreds of cars in the Greater Nanaimo area are carrying small black and yellow stickers on the bumpers following a safety drive sponsored by the local council of women.

The bumper strip, measuring four inches by five inches, carries a cross with the figure 19 on it. This symbolizes the danger of 19 railway crossings within the Nanaimo city limits.

About 75 women, members of the council, distributed the stickers after placing the first one on the bumper of Mayor Pete Maffeo's car. The mayor praised the work of the women and said he hoped that their drive would make motor-

Teachers Ask $566,000 For Increased Salaries

Motto Poll Ruled Out By Dowell

The publicity bureau's "Captain Discovery" and "Treasure Island" were unanimously approved by five members of city council—and there is no need to poll Victorians on the replacement of "Follow the Birds" in "Victoria." Ald. Arthur Dowell said yesterday.

He thus rejected the suggestion of taxi-man Yvo Vesey that Victoria taxpayers, providing a large part of the operating costs of the bureau, should have a direct part in deciding.

W. C. GELLING
... 'you have monopoly'

No Justification Says Chairman

Greater Victoria school teachers last night asked an unsympathetic school board for wage increases averaging almost 12 per cent.

Additional cost to ratepayers would be an estimated $566,465 above the 1960 salary budget of $4,792,800.

The proposed increases, ranging from 3.33 per cent ($100) for the lowest salaries to 13.75 per cent ($1,130) for the highest salaries, were presented to the school board's salaries committee by three members of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association's agreements committee.

W. C. Gelling, chairman of the school board, told teachers' representatives flatly that he feels the 1960 salary schedule is adequate for 1961.

NO JUSTIFICATION

"There is no justification for an increase at the present time," he said.

Other members of the school board appeared equally opposed to the proposed increases.

"Teachers have received increases over the past 14 years... and for teachers to come back and ask for an increase like this, it is really appalling," school board committee chairman Kenneth Leeming said.

WAGES RISING

"Wages are still rising," teachers' committee chairman V. N. R. Sewell countered.

"But not to the percentage that you have asked for each year," Mr. Leeming replied.

He pointed out that if the school board granted the increase it would have 11 teachers on staff—principals—who would be paid more than $12,000 a year each.

NINE AT $11,000

Figures released by the school board following the meeting show that 144 teachers employed at present by the board are earning a minimum of $8,220 a year. Some of them are paid increments on top of that amount—nine of them are paid about $11,000 each.

DOUBLE INCOME

Introducing the application for wage increases, Mr. Sewell told the board: "A professional person should, within a reasonable length of time, be able to double his annual income."

"... In general we have tried to work towards doubling the starting income over quite a long period."

"The general wage pattern seems to be going up," he said.

"And unemployment is getting worse," Mrs. E. M. Maunsell, a school board member, interrupted.

"They got a $960 increase in 1960 and you are now asking for another $1,130," Mr. Leeming pointed out, referring to the highest salary group.

VERY PLEASED

"If you know how the taxpayers can find the money for you I would be very pleased to consider it," he offered.

"The point is that there is a certain price for any commodity you buy," Mrs. Hazel Hodson, a teachers' representative, said.

BEST COMMODITY

"We have given you the best commodity you can buy anywhere and there is a certain price for it," she referred to the high percentage of teachers in this area who hold university degrees.

"If a man makes a suit of clothes or an overcoat—no matter what its quality—if he charges more than it is worth he soon goes out of business," Mr. Gelling commented.

"You have a complete monopoly of supply, so we need some other yardstick than the law of supply and demand," he said.

"It seems to me we have reached a point where the only argument for higher wages for teachers is teachers."

"How many years do you think it is going to take you to get to your goal?" Mr. Leeming asked. "You have been asking for increases for a long time."

"We have to face up to the situation that higher salaries in one district only lead to higher salaries in another," Mr. Gelling added.

A further meeting between the two groups has been arranged for 8 p.m. Oct. 19 in the school board offices.

Falls Kill Man Injure Another

Separate falls late Thursday and early yesterday killed one Victoria man and left another in "serious" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

John Frank Dyer, 71, of 532 Yates, died instantly Thursday in a fall down 16 steps of a fire escape at the Naval Veterans' building on Broad Street.

Alan Thomson, 25, of 349 Vancouver, suffered head, back and other injuries, in a 28-foot fall from the roof of the freight shed at Ogden dock.

Point to the dock below yesterday morning. It is thought Mr. Dyer, who was on the second floor of the building, opened the wrong door by mistake and tumbled to his death.

Yesterday Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart ruled the death accidental following an inquiry.

Thomson, an employee of Smith-Anderson Co. Ltd., roofers, was working on the freight shed roof, pulling in a bucket of gravel from a pulley, when he apparently lost his balance and plunged to the dock.

Store Thief Takes $18

About $18 in silver was missing from a grocery store at 3093 Shelbourne, proprietor Jack Grant, who discovered a break-in yesterday morning, told police. The culprit forced a door at the rear to gain entry, said police.

DUNCAN—Ralph MacDonald of Cobble Hill was fined $50 in court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being impaired while driving.

He was arrested Thursday by police.

DUNCAN—Victoria College student Gary A. Vigers of Duncan has been awarded the Admiral Malnguy, Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, annual $300 scholarship. The former cadet will use it to study aeronautical engineering.

A recent fund drive by the Navy League, sponsors of the cadet corps, brought in $825.

Church-BUILDER Hasn't Given Up Fight

By CHARLES THOMPSON

DUNCAN—It's like an ant squaring off at an elephant but church builder George Turner said yesterday he will continue his fight with the government to get an increase in pension.

It is all a matter of principle with the former businessman who had enough money to keep himself, but became penniless when the church syndicate took over.

With less than $3 in the bank and a mountain of stubbornness, he will "fight." He flew to the battlefront when "instead of being complimented for what I have done I have been condemned by a materialistic world."

And he has a point. He had a business which was returning him $100 a month. He received a legacy from an aunt. She left all but the money Mr. Turner received to churches. He had always wanted to build a church.

"The inspiration of any good deed comes from God and not the person who does it. The person is merely carrying out the will of God. To condemn that person is to condemn God. So how is it possible to be a Christian and do that?" he asks.

He knew he didn't have enough money to complete the church but thought once he got started he could get donations to complete it.

The donations didn't come in nearly fast enough. All his own life's savings went into it. Now, faced with the possibility his pension won't be increased—and a partially completed church—he refuses to give the church away.

"The department of veterans' affairs must have been fully aware that I would not make the sacrifice they wanted of me in order to receive the burned-out pension," he said.

Emphatically Mr. Turner said: "No person would submerge his Christian principles for money."

His request for the pension was rejected, he said, on the grounds that he had more assets than were allowed in the act.

He has written to Canadian Legion headquarters at Ottawa asking for assistance, and suggesting that the group should work towards having the act clarified to differentiate between assets that can be liabilities and those that are revenue producing.

"A church belongs to God, not the builder. It is dedicated to Christian welfare and I cannot take it back and turn it over to some other persons so I can get a pension, no matter how desperate I may be," he said.

As he sits at home he worries of the water that is getting into the church because the roof is not completed.

It would cost $200 to sand and tar the roof. He hasn't got it.

Mail Service Restricted

DUNCAN—Stamp wickets in the post office here will be open only from 9 to 11 a.m. Monday.

General delivery and postage stamp wickets will be manned, but not for money orders. There will be no rural route deliveries.

The box lobby will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Judicial Recount Set For Comox Thursday

NANAIMO — A judicial recount of the provincial election vote in Comox riding will be held in Courtenay Thursday.

Judge L. A. Hanna has approved an application for a recount filed by lawyer Gordon Dowling of Vancouver on behalf of CCF candidate Fred Wood, who trailed Social Credit winner Dan Campbell by 39 votes in the final count. Judge Hanna will conduct the recount.

Union of Unemployed Wins Labor Support

NANAIMO — The idea of a union of unemployed is receiving the backing of Central Vancouver Island labor forces.

Arnold Smith, chairman of the Nanaimo, Alberni and District Labor Council unemployment committee, said he will press for a local being formed in this area if the scheme wins B.C. Federation of Labor approval.

Mr. Smith said that he felt such a union was a good idea because many of the unemployed are not affiliated with any union and have no one to speak for them.

The idea of a B.C. Federation of unemployed won favor at a meeting of the Vancouver Labor Council earlier this week.

Hunter Slain By Brother

PORT ALBERNI—Victor Andreef, 24, was killed in a hunting accident on Grassy Mountain some 10 miles southeast of Port Alberni Friday morning.

RCMP said that the young man was mistaken for a deer by his brother Nikolai, 22, and shot through the head by a bullet from a .303 rifle at 6.45 a.m.

Coroner Dr. N. H. Jones is conducting an inquiry. The Andreef family lives in the Cherry Creek district.

Logger Fined

'Straight Stealing' Rapped

DUNCAN — A city logger was fined on two charges yesterday of what Magistrate A. C. Sutton called "straight stealing from the government."

Norman Stewart, represented by lawyer Thomas Lines, pleaded guilty to charges of making false statements twice in claiming unemployment benefits.

Mr. Lines told the magistrate his client was working as a five-hour-a-day, part-time janitor and did not know he had to report his earnings. Fines were $20 on the first charge and $25 on the second.

"I see it as straight stealing from the government. Under any other circumstances it would be a jail sentence. If a man did that with cheques, you know what the answer would be," said the magistrate.

DUNCAN — John E. Whittaker, an 83-year-old farmer, walked away almost untouched from an accident that wrecked his 24-year-old car yesterday.

He was rushed to hospital by ambulance after fainting twice, but refused to be examined there. He went to Dr. George More, 90, who allowed him to go home but prescribed rest.

It was Mr. Whittaker's first accident in almost 50 years of driving. The accident occurred about 1.15 p.m. on the Trans-Canada Highway a quarter-mile from his farm.

He is the father of Cowichan school board chairman George Whittaker, defeated Liberal candidate in Esquimalt at the last provincial election.

Hospital officials said he suffered shock and minor abrasions.

Mr. Whittaker had dropped some clothing at his son's and stopped to get gas. As he drove away from Ced's Service Station he was in collision with a truck.

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Whittaker, said his first remark was: "Well, that's the end of my car."

He was taken to hospital by the Kiwanis Ambulance. The truck is owned by Ideal Fuel Co. of Victoria.

Quality of Work Hailed In Alberni Art Show

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley Art Group's first jury exhibition opened auspiciously Thursday evening when the salon was crowded with guests at a private showing following the official opening by Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

Heard on all sides were enthusiastic comments on the general level of excellence in the show which contains 75 paintings selected by a panel of Vancouver Island judges.

"FINER THINGS"

Mr. Westwood expressed satisfaction in seeing evidence of interest in the "finer things of life" in a community made up largely of workmen. He said that his department is attempting to promote the same interest in worthwhile recreational activities among those whom automation is giving more free time.

At the dinner preceding the visit to the gallery, Mr. Westwood presented cash prizes to Fleming Jorgensen, Victoria, whose "Boat on Beach" had been judged best among oil paintings entered in the show; Nina Forrest, Victoria, for "Blue Nude," second in oils; Richard Ciccimara, Victoria, for "Still Life," chosen as best among the water colors. Alister Ross, Comox, was not present to receive his second place award for "Dove Creek."

GUESTS WELCOMED

Guests at the dinner were welcomed by Mrs. Bubb Bottner, president of the art group.

G. A. Sedola, who with Herbert Seibner and W. D. West of Victoria had acted on the jury, told the sponsors of the show that they had set a pace for other committees. He had been favorably impressed with the quality of the close to 450 paintings from which the jury had made its selections, Mr. Sedola said.

Besides the prize-winning entries, paintings selected for hanging in the show were by Barbara J. Burns, M. Barnes, Bide Gaudes, Mrs. B. Kemster, Nora M. Lewis, Peggy Larson, Mrs. R. W. Lyle, Bill Morrison, Mrs. V. McLaughlin, Phyllis A. Manning, J. Odgers, Verna C. Petrie, Doris M. Rose, Carol Suter, B. C. Widdon, Margaret J. Young, Joan Peet, Alice R. D. Allen, Alice G. Carey, Linda Colbert, H. V. Foster, Owen Goward, Maude Lettice, Gertrude Sander, Joyce F. Bell, Marie De Goutiere, Virginia Lewis, Mrs. C. D. Blinks, Elizabeth R. Goward, all of Victoria; Bubb Bottner, Lorna Hepburn, Gay Roberts, Eva Saunders, Betty Crozier, Allison Dewar, Albert Val, C. Hornefield, Errington, C. M. Metcalfe, Nanaimo; Stanley Nall, Ladysmith; Nora Newton, Michael Morris, Molly Privette, Sidney; Constance Bonner, Cobble Hill; G. Thornton Sharp, Crofton; Mary Waller, Whidbey; Lloyd Witham, Courtenay; W. Condon, Sooke; Helen Buchanan, Portofino; Louis R. Davies, Comox; Rosanna Hammond, Duncan; Jeanette Hart, Chemainus.

Ghana Eyes 200 Firms

LONDON (AP)—Authoritative sources reported Friday night that Ghana plans the takeover of some 200 foreign firms in a three-year reorganization plan.

Key companies among the 70 British enterprises that would be affected issued sharp protests. Shares of companies with assets in Ghana sagged in the London stock exchange.

EXPECTED MOVE
The British government has been expecting some far-reaching nationalization measures in its former West African colony.

Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth relations secretary, called at once for full details of the Accra government's intentions, according to an official spokesman.

to be a subject of debate—and possibly disagreement—within the government of President Nkrumah.

Only last month Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah sought in London to raise private loan and investment funds.

RECONSIDER

Any wholesale takeover might compel the Western powers to reconsider past offers of large-scale economic aid to Ghana. The West African state is launching a huge five-year industrialization program hinged on harnessing the waters of the Volta River.

Abandon Quemoy Kennedy's Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic candidate John Kennedy says he would withdraw defences from offshore Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu and draw the defence line at Formosa. Vice-President Nixon says he would continue to defend the islands.

The issue of the Quemoy and Matsu islands, plus handling of the U-2 spy plane incident, were among the big points of difference in the second radio-television debate between the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates.

Trading charges of "distortion" and "defeatism," Nixon and Kennedy dropped the relatively soft approach of their first face-to-face engagement as they tangled over such issues as civil rights, U.S. policy toward Cuba and the state of U.S. prestige.

The major fireworks came when Kennedy was asked his position on defence of the offshore islands, now held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces. They have been a long-time target of the Communists on the mainland.

Kennedy replied that he would draw a defence line around the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, 150 miles away, and appeal to Chiang to give up Quemoy and Matsu. He said this would leave a line that could be defended—Formosa—and would have the support of other nations.

CHAIN REACTION

Nixon disagreed sharply, accusing Kennedy of "woolly thinking." He said he hoped the Democrat would change his mind because giving up any "free territory" would start a chain reaction of Communist threats and demands.

On the U-2 incident, Kennedy stood by his previous statement that he would have expressed regret to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev over the spy's plane flight if this would have salvaged the summit. He charged that his statement had been "distorted" by Nixon and others.

PREFERABLE TO LIE

Kennedy said his course would have been preferable to the "lie" the administration told in first denying the flight. He said this country had voiced regrets before in similar circumstances.

Nixon retorted that the president of the United States can never express regret when he is in the right and doing something to protect the country. He said he would never express regrets to Khrushchev for any national security program.

China Issue Fireworks Delayed by UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The UN General Assembly yesterday suddenly called off its night session as the East and West approached a critical clash on the issue of Red China's membership.

Fireworks on the China issue thus were put off until after Soviet Premier Khrushchev makes another assembly address today.

Algerians Backed In Surprise Move

Tunisia To Push Rebels?

TUNIS (Reuters)—President Habib Bourguiba said Friday Tunisia might unite with the Algerian insurgents to hasten the "liberation" of Algeria and keep it out of the cold war.

He told the National Assembly here that Russian or Chinese armies may soon be on the way to the insurgents.

SIX-YEAR FIGHT

They have been fighting for independence from France for the last six years.

"When Russia and China enter the lists—and we can perhaps no longer prevent them—we will be obliged to carry out this fusion to prevent Africa tending to become a satellite of East or West," Bourguiba said.

SEEKS SUPPORT

Algerian rebel "premier" Ferhat Abbas now is in Moscow seeking support for his forces after receiving a promise in Peking of Chinese Communist aid.

Bourguiba said his "idea" for uniting with the Algerian insurgents is not yet a firm project. The aim, he said, is to build a democratic North Africa as soon as the Algerian people are free.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—In a challenge to French President de Gaulle, Soviet Premier Khrushchev Friday recognized the Algerian rebel leadership as in fact a government.

The French government had threatened to break relations with the Soviet Union if it recognized the North African rebels fighting for independence from France. De Gaulle is promoting a plan he says will give Algeria self-determination but hopes to keep it allied with France.

The immediate reaction in Paris was that Khrushchev's statement before a United Nations Correspondents Association luncheon came as a surprise.

De Gaulle himself was touring the French provinces, bitterly speaking out against the UN assembly in apparent anticipation of action it may take on the Algerian rebels' case for independence.

K's Pledge:

Spring Summit Will Put Off Berlin Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev pledged yesterday Russia will take no action to force a showdown on Germany and West Berlin if the West agrees to a new summit conference next spring.

Khrushchev told the United Nations Correspondents' Association British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had assured him there would be a summit meeting in the spring. If there is not, he said, the Soviet Union will sign a peace treaty with East Germany and "that will be the end of the West Berlin question also."

NO PROMISE

But British foreign office spokesman John Russell denied yesterday that Macmillan promised Khrushchev there would be a summit conference next spring. He also refuted other assertions made by the Soviet leader.

Khrushchev said Russia insists upon the replacement of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld by a three-member presidium and warned that if its demand is not granted, it will rely on "our strength" outside the United Nations.

STRENGTH, NOT FORCE

His interpreter translated his remarks as a threat to "uphold our interests outside this organization by means of force." The Soviet press officer later said that phrase should have been translated "by relying on our strength."

The Soviet leader said Russia would not accept Hammarskjöld as secretary-general even if 99 per cent of the UN members voted for him.

Answering questions for an hour and 42 minutes, Khrushchev told the newsmen: "Macmillan assured him in private talks that there would be a summit conference next year after the U.S. election. The summit would be convened to discuss a peace treaty with Germany and the conversion of West Berlin into a free city, he said."

Russia would stand by its pledge not to force the German issue by signing a separate treaty with East Germany if there is agreement to hold a summit session.

In return, Khrushchev proposed a special session of the general assembly, to be held next February and April, perhaps in Moscow or Leningrad, to discuss only the questions of disarmament.

The current assembly session cannot solve questions because of the "hindrance" of the U.S. presidential election, which means that "the United States cannot actively participate in solving all the important questions" before it.

Macmillan favored a delay of "five or 10" years on the disarmament question to permit world tension to cool, and then wanted to give the problem to a committee of experts "and let them move ahead as a small world move."

Russia, Khrushchev said, insisted on going ahead now with disarmament "under international control" to prevent the spread of nuclear arms and missiles and the entry of more countries into the armaments race.

(Russell said Macmillan did not reject Khrushchev's proposal for a special assembly session on disarmament, but at the same time "he did not accept it." He said it was not correct that Macmillan proposed a five or 10-year delay in disarmament plans. And he said Macmillan's plan for an expert committee to consider disarmament was a proposal to speed things up.)

Fishboats, Ship Capsize

Typhoon Rips Philippines 20 Dead, Scores Missing

MANILA (UPI)—Typhoon Kit swept into the South China Sea Friday after it slashed through the populous central Philippine Islands with 90-mile-an-hour winds, leaving 20 persons dead and 58 missing. The typhoon ripped through five provinces just south of Manila in its northward swing.

There was no complete report on damage and casualties. Most of the persons unaccounted for were fishermen whose boats sank in turbulent seas. At least eight small boats and one 240-ton ship capsized in southern Philippine waters before they could reach shelter.

First reports from officials in the coconut centre of Bicol placed damage to crops, public works projects and private property at $300,000. The figure was expected to rise.

HARVEST HEIGHT

Damage to crops could be particularly heavy because the storm came at the height of the rice harvest.

Fringe rains also caused floods in lower sections in Manila and in northern Tarlac province, where rising rivers were reported threatening to inundate several towns.

Blast, Fire Ruin Largest Mill

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—An explosion and fire Friday night wrecked the largest flour mill in the Commonwealth.

One person was missing, six were in hospital and first estimates placed damage as high as $1,500,000.

Four hours after the blast at the Maple Leaf Milling Co., the fire was reported "still out of control" and creeping toward a 3,000,000-bushel National Harbors Board grain elevator 70 feet away. The adjoining Ontario Bag Co. also was reported destroyed.

George Crowther, 40, building superintendent, said: "The top blew off her. It started on about the third floor and went on through."

"I don't know what could have happened. I don't know whether it was combustion or not."

Canada Picks Newfoundland For First Satellite Tracker

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's first station designed specifically to track satellites, really to track satellites and record signals from outer space will be built near St. John's, Nfld.

Dr. R. S. Riddle of the radio and electrical engineering division of the National Research Council said Friday that the $250,000 station will be operating by mid-December. Dr. Riddle said the station "will be of particular importance in helping Canadian scientists learn more about the ionosphere, an electrically-charged layer 60 to 300 miles above the earth. This will enable scientists to develop better telecommunications systems.

The new satellite tracking station, being built 15 miles north of St. John's near Pouch Cove, will occupy a 25-acre site.

being constructed under an international agreement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Washington. The space administration is paying the full cost of installation but annual operating and maintenance costs of about $150,000 will be borne by Canada.

The Newfoundland site was chosen because of its position in relation to satellite launching sites in the United States.

The station will play an important role in recording signals from Canada's "top side sounder" satellite, scheduled to be launched into space by a U.S. rocket from the Vandenberg, Calif., air base in 1962. The satellite, now being built by the Defence Research Board, will pick up and transmit to earth information about the upper levels of the ionosphere and radio signals emanating from outer space.
